Survey Response Shows Army Officers' Desire for Promotion Action

One-sixth of Commissioned Personnel Has Replied To Date.

OVERWHELMING interest and a desire to see the promotion situation speedily settled are evidenced by the first four days' return in the Army and Navy Journal Promotion Survey. More than 1,000 cards were received in time for inclusion in the Survey Box printed on this page and up to the time of going to press the Army and Navy Journal has received approximately 1,000 more which are now being tabulated for inclusion in the box next week. This means that one-sixth of the commissioned personnel of the Army had responded to the survey and each mail brings additional replies.

All Grades Included.

With officers of all ranks from Major General to Second Lieutenant participating, the initial returns to the survey have brought hundreds of laudatory comments and a few which indicate disagreement with the purpose of the survey.

An analysis of the cards tabulated for the box indicate the following trends to date:

- (1) About 25 to 1 for removal of restrictions on retired officers and on the question of voluntary separations.
- (2) About 8 to 1 against enforced separation.
- (3) About 9 to 1 for all other questions except that on "no restriction in grade."
- (4) About 4 to 1 in favor of no limitation in grades.

Infantry Response Heavy.

The Infantry to date leads with responses to the survey, which was not unexpected as it has the largest number of commissioned personnel. The Coast Artillery Corps and Quartermaster Corps are second ranking in the number

Reed Praises Promotion Survey

SENATOR DAVID A. REED, of Pennsylvania, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs, made the following statement this week in connection with the Survey on Promotion now being conducted by the Army and Navy Journal:

"At the present time the Senate appears to be deadlocked over the amended Furlow Bill and the bill introduced by Senator Black. Both provide for promotion after specified periods of service-in-grade, but the Black Bill goes further and provides for a complete revision of the promotion list.

"Much lobbying has been done for and against the latter proposition, and I believe that many of the Senators have a very confused understanding of the question.

"The survey should prove of great value, and the Army and Navy Journal is to be commended on its action. It will be of further assistance to Congress if officers will indicate on the cards what the feeling in the Service is in respect to the amended Furlow Bill and the Black Bill."

of replies, while great interest is evinced in the Cavalry, Field Artillery and Ordnance Departments. Other branches whose totals are not so high in the tabulated box are showing increasing response in the latest mail.

The Chemical Warfare Service and Engineers show the largest percentage of opinion in favor of forced separation in accordance with returns so far tabulated, the survey showing a 1 to 2 sentiment in the Chemical Warfare Service to date and a 1 to 3 in the Corps of Engineers. The other arms are practically overwhelmingly against this proposal.

Following are typical suggestions or qualifications received on the cards under heading "Remarks" or received in letters accompanying cards:

Infantry.
"Good Work."

"Pay problem more acute than promotion problem."

"If not the above, let us alone."

"I am one of the extremely unfortunate 'submerged Captains.'"

"Leave the promotion list alone."

"The above propositions are real solutions."

"Cut out all talk about revision of the promotion list. Get some definite action for or against the above so that an officer may perform his duties without being subjected to the constant threat of being disturbed, due to the machinations of a few malcontents."

"I indorse the Simonds Board's four points of agreement."

"Favor Gen. Simonds' Plan."

"A clear way out is represented by the Black amendment to the Reed Senate Bill."

"An increase of pay, particularly for Lieutenants."

"Unless there is a limit on numbers in grades, I believe there will be entirely too many Field Officers."

"I favor revision of the promotion list so I will not be junior to officers who served under me during the World War,

All Principles Are Endorsed Except That on Enforced Separation.

This means several hundred files in my case."

"Adequate pay based on length of service."

"Favor most of all the Navy law of age-in-grade retirement."

"A single list of the 1920 group by age or college class among all the Army officers would have been just in 1920; equally just today. There never should have been a 'hump' but for the puerile action of those in Washington responsible. Do you want my views—they boil at times."

"Reduction of the number of Colonels and Lt. Colonels. We are top-heavy."

"I favor no change in the promotion list."

"Increase pay in all junior grades."

"I worked thru one 'hump' and others can. No legislation can be devised that make each man a Maj. Gen. and give him $1,000,000 per minute and all expenses paid."

"Reduce hump by eliminations within the hump."

"Increase in pay is unanimously desired."

"Believe that promotion should be limited in grades of Lt. Col. and Col. so that commissioned grades will not become top-heavy. Limit on all field grades might be advisable for the same reason."

"I believe the crux of the situation is the economic feature, and rank only a means to acquire more pay and thus relieve the economic tension. Therefore, a higher pay schedule would quiet most of the present dissatisfaction."

"And bill similar to Navy recommendations to secure adequate pay."

"For the good of the service, leave promotion list alone."

"Increased pay is far more important than legislation concerning promotion. Poor pay has caused more dissatisfaction than anything."

"Pay increase that will give junior officers a respectable living will help the Army more than promotion legislation."

"Equality with Navy in rank and pay."

"Pay is more important than promotion to keep us out of debt, or better said—to get us out."

"I wish they would stop changing all the time. We never know where we stand."

Coolidge's Armistice Plea for Adequate Defense Lauded by Press

HAILED as insuring the passage of the cruiser program now pending before Congress, President Coolidge's Armistice Day speech has been enthusiastically received by the press of the country. Editors praise its clarity and frankness and believe that its pronouncements will give the nations of Europe food for thought.

THE Philadelphia Public Ledger (Republican) writes: "It was no perfunctory Armistice Day address that President Coolidge delivered. This speech contains one of the clearest and most outspoken summaries of American aims and policy with regard to the major issues of peace and war, of national defense and international cooperation, that has been made since the end of the war. * * * A nation which fails to provide adequately for defense invites attack, or at least lays itself open to an overbearing policy on the part of its neighbors which almost inevitably leads to war. The cruiser-building program sponsored by the Coolidge Administration is designed to put the United States in a reasonably defensive position against these possibilities."

THE New York Evening Post (Independent) takes this view: "Mr. Coolidge, like most thinking people, has not forgotten the attempt of the British admirals at Geneva to box us into naval agreement almost exclusively for their benefit. He has not forgotten that this followed hard upon our magnificent if foolhardy scrapping of battleships as a sign of our good faith in the Washington agreement. He has not forgotten the Franco-British naval accord drafted and designed against the United States. Therefore he has let Europe get a glimpse of the new feeling over here which Europe's hostile attitude at last has created." * * *

THE New York Sun (Republican) has this to say: "Americans abroad who delight in apologizing for the conduct of their Government in war and peace will not be pleased with President Coolidge's Armistice Day speech. It will be too blunt for them." * * *

THE Baltimore Sun (Democratic) notes: "No one may quarrel with Mr. Coolidge for seeing both sides of this question. All thinking men do. But Mr. Coolidge is to be criticized for not thinking through to a more definite conclusion, for not taking a more courageous stand. There are dangers on either side. There are dangers that all the world admits in programs of preparedness for war. There are dangers of treachery in a program based on faith and peace." * * *

THE New York World (Democratic) comments: "The significant parts of Mr. Coolidge's Armistice Day address are those which dealt with naval limitation and the Kellogg treaty. He built this section of his speech about the statement that our national policy for world peace is a combination 'of preparation, limitation, and renunciation.' * * * But it was upon 'preparation' that Mr. Coolidge was most pungent. * * * This passage has a double importance. * * * It indicates in its demand for 'more cruisers' that the Administration this year, as last, will stand behind a program of marked naval expansion."

Chiefs Make Annual Reports

ANNUAL reports of Army Chiefs of Branches, as of June 30, 1928, are now being released by the War Department. Following are salient extracts from the reports of the Chiefs of Coast Artillery, Engineers, Field Artillery, Chemical Warfare Service and The Quartermaster General released this week:

Chief of Coast Artillery.

During the year seacoast artillery battle practices have been resumed; tactical training incident to concentrations on both coasts and artillery technique improved, artillery practice methods, including the scoring system, standardized; a new system for controlled submarine mines adopted; defensive sea area plans revised; sound ranging equipment and anti-aircraft gun equipment advanced toward standardization, and hopeful progress made towards solving the problem of A. A. machine-gun fire at longer ranges; studies for A. A. defense of important localities initiated; care of equipment and maintenance of high standards of personnel training and appearance increased.

"Considering the various conditions Coast Artillery organizations serve under in our overseas and continental garrisons, progress in training of all units during the year has been praiseworthy.

"Analyzed we find that 75 per cent of the batteries fired at greater speed, the improvement being especially marked for the rapid-fire armament. Greater range was attained by 77 per cent of the batteries. Fifty-four per cent of the batteries improved in accuracy, the greatest improvement being noted for rapid-fire armament. In hits per gun per minute improvement is noted in 78 per cent of the batteries firing.

"The improvement in seacoast artillery practice is attributed to the system of competition introduced in 1926. While not favorably received by some officers, there has been a general increase of accomplishment, interest and enthusiasm. This is far more notable in the reports of those target practices for the calendar year 1928 which have been received to date than in the practices reported upon above."

The allotment of funds for troop movements incident to Coast Artillery training in the U. S. for the F. Y. 1928 enabled concentrations to be effected at three U. S. harbors. This placed in service some batteries and installations normally without manning parties, showing condition of equipment.

With two exceptions, lack of means has prevented progress in testing the regulations for joint employment of the C. A. and Air Corps. The exceptions are the Hawaiian and Panama Departments.

Equipment for terrestrial sound ranging, with assistance of the Sig. Corps, has been given a service test and found satisfactory. It is expected that it will be adopted as standard within a short time.

New anti-aircraft equipment has been developed that so far exceeds the efficiency of the war time material now in service as to require immediate action to secure rearmament of anti-aircraft gun units. Funds have been appropriated for the F. Y. 1929 to initiate this rearmament program. Fire control for machine guns beyond tracer ranges is still in an experimental stage. A comparatively inexpensive type of em-

High Lights From Annual Reports

FOLLOWING are salient extracts from the annual reports of Army Chiefs of Branches for the fiscal year 1928, released this week:

Maj. Gen. Andrew Hero, Chief of Coast Artillery: "Responsibility for heavy trench mortars has been transferred to the Field Artillery, leaving the Coast Artillery charged only with the development and use of weapons intended for fire on moving targets, naval or air, and of the auxiliaries necessary for control of such fire."

Maj. Gen. Edgar Judwin, Chief of Engineers: "The Corps of Engineers has a large shortage in Colonels and Captains, with a corresponding preponderance of Majors and 1st and 2d Lieutenants. This has resulted in the necessary assignment of Majors to duties and responsibilities which should normally be borne by Colonels and Lieutenant Colonels, and of a greater proportion of Lieutenants to regiments than prescribed by Tables of Organization."

Maj. Gen. B. F. Cheatham, The Quartermaster General: " * * * There has been a material decrease in the higher enlisted grades and a corresponding material increase in the lowest grades. * * * Appointments in the three higher grades are eagerly sought by enlisted men and there is no shortage of men who are qualified for appointment to these positions."

Maj. Gen. Fred T. Austin, Chief of Field Artillery: "Once the Field Artillery officer has passed the grade of Captain, his service with regular troops will, on the average, be only about 33 1-3 per cent the time."

Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, Chief of Chemical Warfare Service: "A change in the War Department training directive opened up the possibility for chemical warfare training in the Army for 1928 to an extent which had not been possible before. Corps Areas and Departments likewise made their programs more comprehensive, with a resultant marked increase in the training throughout the Army."

placement for 155 mm guns has been designed and given a satisfactory service test in Panama. It allows the trails to be moved quickly and this gives the gun 180 degrees, or 360 degrees of field of fire. A limited traverse on the gun carriage adds considerably to usefulness against rapidly moving targets. Personnel of the 52 Coast Artillery (Ry.) have devised a system of ammunition service from car to gun, enabling loading to be continuous throughout a wide traverse of the piece. As a result, the falling off in rate of fire noted for the calendar year 1927 has been corrected.

"Conclusions: In technical training the condition of the corps is satisfactory in all branches. In tactical training there has been a marked advance during the past year. This should be continued by the allotment of the necessary funds for troop movements. It is very desirable that the minor joint exercises be extended by outlining, at least, the mobile coast defense forces for sectors of the coast line adjoining the harbor defenses at which these exercises are held, and that sufficient aircraft be made available to develop the Air Corps' mission in coast defense. The progress of development work toward standardization of equipment has been gratifying."

Chief of Engineers.

Twenty-eight officers, 24 from the U. S. M. A., one from the C. A. C., and three appointed from civil life, joined the C. E. during the fiscal year 1928. The Corps has been able to meet demands for commissioned personnel due to expansion of the Organized Reserves, N. G., and R. O. T. C. There is a large shortage of colonels and captains, and a preponderance of majors, 1st and 2d Lieutenants. Accordingly, majors have been assigned to the duties of colonels and Lt. colonels, and regiments

THE New York Times (Democratic) views: "In particular must we have more cruisers. Foreign Governments agreed at the Washington Conference to limit the class of warships in which America was superior, but refused limitations in the class in which they were superior." * * *

THE New York Herald Tribune (Republican) asserts: "The United States is now the richest and most powerful nation in the world. * * * We have a long coast line and distant outlying possessions as well as our own population and treasure to protect. This duty of defense comes first and ought never to be disregarded or sought to be discharged through reliance on mere academic formulae." * * *

THE Washington Post (Republican) believes: "Mr. Coolidge's terse statement that the United States had 'of course' rejected the Anglo-French proposal for the unlimited building of such vessels as they require, and for a limitation upon such vessels as America requires, ought to put an end to European attempts to pull the wool over American eyes. * * * America's protective naval requirements are made larger by the increase of European armaments."

THE Washington Daily News (Scripps-Howard) states: "President Coolidge's plea in his Armistice Day address for more cruisers is coupled with an apparent realization of the fact that excessive armaments do not make for peace. This is important. * * * He speaks of the desirability of 'adequate national defense.' * * * Whatever may be said for the rest of the President's address, we believe he correctly voices the feeling of America in this respect."

THE Washington Evening Star (Independent) thinks: "No point raised by President Coolidge approaches in timeliness his reference to the Navy. Within a few weeks the Senate will act upon the sixteen-ship construction program already passed by the House. Fifteen of those ships are cruisers. Mr. Coolidge argues with unanswerable facts the pacifist whine that the cruisers have become an unnecessary expenditure in face of the Kellogg antiwar pact."

THE New York Journal of Commerce (Commercial) observes: "Big Navy advocates will be able to extract more consolation than the pacifists from this Armistice Day address. * * *

THE Washington Herald (Hearst) offers the opinion that: "The sound common sense of Calvin Coolidge, his transcendent virtue in the eyes of his countrymen, was never more in evidence than in his Armistice Day speech. It was a preparedness speech, peculiarly effective because it was made by a man who hates war and has been the world's chief advocate of measures of peace." * * *

lists for N. C. O. grades. Civilian employees have been reduced 33 per cent since 1922 to a minimum. Total O. R. C. strength was 10,162.

Following is the work on equipment completed by the Q. M. Technical Committee:

Adoption of Model AB Mack cargo truck and GMC cargo truck, Model K-41, as substitute standards for 1½-ton trucks; transfer of 1½-ton Oxford and Packard Class A trucks to limited Standard; revision of the saddler's set; adoption of machine-gun cart harness, M-1927, as standard; revision of list of accessories for escort wagon; adoption of 22-inch commercial machete, to replace the Eng. machete and Ord. bolo. In individual use; adoption of the stitched type of cartridge belt; revision of 10-year Development Program of Q. M. supplies; adoption of 5-year Development Program for motor transportation; adoption of haversack, M-1923, as standard to replace haversack, M-1910; transfer of function of supplying flashlights from the Quartermaster Corps to the Signal Corps; acceptance for the War Department of thirteen simplified practice recommendations.

Development Work and Studies: An ambulance, animal-drawn, is now under construction at Jeffersonville Q. M. Depot, capable of three important uses, transportation of medical and combat equipment, medical personnel, and of patients. It is adapted to animal or motor traction. If satisfactory, this vehicle will obviate necessity for escort wagons for the transportation of medical impediments. There is now under development by the Jeffersonville Q. M. Depot a 150-gallon water cart for test by the F. A. Board, and by the Philadelphia Q. M. Depot, a trench coat for use under combat conditions. Samples are under consideration by the Inf. Cav., F. A. and C. A. Boards.

A test is being made of rayon hat cords as substitute for cotton cords now issued. Test of canteen covers has been completed by the F. A. Board and will be considered by the Q. M. Technical Committee upon completion of test by the Cav. Board. Upon recommendation of the Chief of Cav., purchase is under way of several types of wire cutters for tests by the Cav. Board. Four each of company, field desks and company records chests, and four regimental field desks, modified as recommended by branches, are being constructed for trial. To secure a substitute emergency campaign hat, tests have been made of numerous hats and caps, but no satisfactory substitute has been developed. A number of hats of domestic fur will be tested in the future.

There is now under construction at the Jeffersonville Q. M. Depot a limbered type of rolling kitchen, the Taylor-31 type (animal-drawn or trailer) having been disapproved. A spat type of canvas leggings has been recommended for adoption for use by all dismounted troops. Development of a more satisfactory foot strap. This recommendation was disapproved by the Adjutant General until a more satisfactory foot strap is developed.

A test of grooming machines is now in progress at the Cav. Board, and was recently completed by the F. A. Board. The comparative test by the F. A. Board of the Cav. standard pack cooking outfit, the have had too many lieutenants. A net gain of 393 was made in the Engineer Section, O. R. C., making a total of 7,742.

Engineer construction included emplacement of 16-inch guns and secondary armament, gun blocks and connecting spurs for railway artillery, installation of harbor defense search lights and fire control systems and the construction of wharves, military roads and trains. Development of anti-aircraft searchlights and accessories has progressed satisfactorily. Minor improvements in the 1925 searchlight have increased its efficiency. During the year a number of searchlight units were purchased and delivered to the army.

The Quartermaster General.

Actual strength of the Q. M. C. on June 30, 1928, was 772 officers, leaving 56 vacancies existing on that date, and including 52 on detached service. In accordance with a new W. D. policy, three 1928 graduates of the U. S. M. A. were commissioned 2d Lieutenants in the Q. M. C.; two of these were detailed in the A. C. and one in the Inf., to assume Q. M. C. duties in one year. Enlisted strength was reduced by 197 men to provide the A. C. increment, making the present authorized strength 7,477 men. As a result of this and previous reductions in enlisted strength, it is necessary for post commanders to detail men from the line to perform Q. M. C. duties.

There has been a material decrease in the higher and corresponding increase in the lowest enlisted grade. It has become difficult to secure and keep men qualified for specialized Q. M. C. duties. The situation is under study. Enlisted men seek appointments in the three higher grades. On June 30, 445 enlisted men were on eligible

Asks Generalcy Bill Change

IN a letter to the Senate Committee on Military Affairs made public this week, Maj. Gen. C. P. Summerall, Chief of Staff, U. S. A., as Acting Secretary of War, in August, proposed an amendment to H. R. 9961, "To equalize the rank of officers of the Army and Navy," passed by the House and now before the Senate, which would determine the precedence of Generals and Admirals. He wrote:

"A bill, H. R. 9961, to confer the temporary rank of general upon the Chief of Staff has passed the House, and is now understood to be pending before your Committee.

"The Secretary of the Navy has called my attention to the fact that in its present form this bill would cause a reversal of the precedence of the present Chief of Naval Operations and Chief of Staff, respectively. This would result from the fact that the Chief of Naval Operations was appointed as such subsequent to the appointment of the present Chief of Staff, but since his appointment has held the rank of admiral, whereas the Chief of Staff has held only the rank of major general.

"This reversal of precedence is neither sought nor desired by the War Department. In the bill originally prepared in the Department it was avoided by a pro-

Naval Pay Situation Relief Is Essential

By BRIG. GEN. GEORGE RICHARDS, (Member, The McNamee Pay Board).

THE Washington Star of October 29, 1928, tells us that Secretary Kellogg protests against certain provisions of existing law, including the recent Welch act, fixing the yearly salary of his Undersecretary of State at a rate materially less than each of the four Assistant Secretaries ranking below and serving under him. So righteous a protest so promptly registered is noteworthy.

That case the State Department so recently acquired resembles hundreds long prevailing in the commissioned personnel of the Naval and Military Services. That that first basic principle embodied in the McNamee report on Navy and Marine Corps pay, viz.: "Compensation should be based fundamentally on the responsibilities borne and services rendered," is so warmly endorsed by a Cabinet officer, is encouraging to Admiral McNamee and his associates on the Navy Pay Board.

Pay Roster on Hoover Ship.

Another bit of news interests us. The President-elect is to embark for his South American journey on one of our best battleships—the "Maryland." The pay roster of that ship came under our scrutiny. Its captain then was paid less than four of his subordinates; his executive officer, next to him in responsibility, received less than fourteen of his juniors. Some of the enlisted force were paid more than the junior commissioned officers. Is it to be supposed that Mr. Hoover, after that prolonged and intimate contact with the service afloat, will disembark unenlightened as to actual condition? But let us not be too sanguine. Our troubles are to be settled, not at our end of Pennsylvania Avenue, but on Capitol Hill, where assemble the representatives of our people, for whose security the Navy exists.

But, as we of the Navy Pay Board survey the situation today, we are not dissatisfied with the outlook. The daily evidence of an universal approval in the Possibility of Service Classic Still Rumored

By M. H. McINTYRE.

THERE is a strong possibility that, in the near future, athletic relations between the two service academies, severed more than a year ago, will be resumed and that next fall, the Army and Navy game, the most colorful and widely heralded classic of the gridiron, may be played.

In the face of the unequivocal statement given out at West Point on November 14 that the Military Academy's schedule was all set for 1929 and 1930 and there could be no game with the Naval Academy, it can be stated authoritatively that the final word has not been spoken. Furthermore there are good reasons to believe that the matter will be satisfactorily adjusted and an amicable agreement reached.

Powerful influences are at work to get the differences straightened out and have the wholesome competition between the Cadets and Midshipmen, not only in football but in all other branches of sport, revived.

Admittedly there is a wide variance in the viewpoint of the Army and Navy and considerable bitterness has been engendered. What form of compromise will be accepted is not known but considerable pressure is being brought to bear upon those responsible for the management of the Services' athletics.

With Maj. Gen. E. B. Winans no longer at West Point, having been relieved by Maj. Gen. W. R. Smith, and Rear Adm. L. M. Nulton relieved by Rear Adm. S. S. Robinson at Annapolis, and with Comdr. Jonas Ingram completing his tour of duty in charge of athletics at Annapolis and slated to be relieved next spring, the majority of the personnel who figured in the break is changed. In many quarters, the recent statement from the Naval Academy that a date in the schedule for next season was being held open, was hailed as an olive branch. In other quarters it was classified as an attempt to force the

Propose New Air Insurance

THERE may be recommended for passage at the coming session of Congress, by Departments concerned, a bill for insurance of aviators and others engaged in correspondingly dangerous occupations under the Government, it was learned this week.

This bill was formulated by a committee composed of: Lt. Col. R. S. Porter, Maj. L. S. Tillotson, Maj. K. S. Perkins, and Lt. C. W. Steinmetz, U. S. A.; Capt. C. R. Train, Capt. J. R. Hornberger, U. S. N.; Col. H. C. Reisinger, U. S. M. C.; Lt. Comdr. G. A. Smith, and Lt. Comdr. S. B. Robinson, U. S. N., and representatives of the Treasury Department, Veterans Bureau, and Employees Compensation Commission, convened to reconsider similar proposals previously rejected by the Bureau of the Budget.

The proposed bill provides $10,000 additional U. S. Government insurance for qualified fliers of all permanent Federal flying services, to be purchased by qualified fliers at the same rates and under the same conditions as now prescribed for U. S. Government insurance; U. S. Employees Compensation Law to be made applicable to National Guard, Reserves of Army and Navy, C. M. T. C., R. O. T. C., and provisional members of the U. S. Coast Guard who are not entitled to retirement. The proposal doubles pension rates for the Regular Army, including Cadets; Navy, including Midshipmen, and U. S. Marine Corps, excepting the cases of specific disabilities, principally for the benefit of widows and orphans. It makes pensions laws applicable to widows and orphans of permanent U. S. Coast Guard and U. S. Public Health Service; makes Department record of line of duty sufficient proof of service, origin, death, or disability, and repeals the present law for double pensions for Navy aviators and their dependents alone.

Army Notes

"ARMY affairs are now running smoothly," said Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis this week in a statement to the Army and Navy Journal.

"With Army military functions running so smoothly, most of my time will now be spent upon outside Army projects, especially flood control work," the Secretary stated. "Flood control and the development of the waterways is one of the most important duties of the War Department, and much attention will be given flood control projects."

Maj. E. P. Pierson, I. G. D., has been detailed as Military Attache to Sweden, Norway and Denmark, with station at Stockholm, Sweden, relieving Maj. F. A. Holmer, G. S., who has been on this duty since May 2, 1925. Maj. Pierson will proceed to Washington on Dec. 15 for temporary duty in the office of the Assistant Chief of Staff for Military Intelligence, upon the completion of which he will proceed to Stockholm.

In accordance with the annual custom, instructions have been issued to all Corps Area Commanders and the Commanding Officers of posts under the direct control of the War Department to hold all available motor vehicles, except those in dead storage not actually needed for military purposes, at the disposal of the Corps Area coordinator for the use of the Post Office Department during the Christmas congestion of mail.

The Secretary of War has transmitted to the Secretary of State for file in the archives of his Department the official decree of the President of the Republic of Ecuador conferring the decoration of "Estrella de Abdon Calderon" (First Class) on Col. J. C. Johnson, I. G. Dep. Col. Johnson is at the Coast Artillery School, Ft. Monroe, Va., for a three months' refresher course at that school.

C. A. C. Sergeant Commended

MSTR. SGT. PAUL R. NELSON, C. A. C., stationed at the Subm. Mine Depot, Fort Totten, N. Y., has been commended by the Secretary of War for invention and donation to the U. S. Government of a patented invention by which the number of conductors in submarine mine cables has been reduced from 19 to 1 and the coast defense mine system greatly simplified both in operation and amount of material used, in a letter from the Secretary to Sgt. Nelson accepting assignment of patent rights to the Government.

Sgt. Nelson, a graduate of the Enlisted Men's Division of the Coast Artillery School, Fortress Monroe, Va., served as Captain during the World War. It is estimated that in 10 years the Government will save a million dollars through use of his invention.

Maj. Gen. Andrew Hero, Chief of Coast Artillery, said of the invention: "Mstr. Sgt. Nelson has been devoting a great deal of time and attention to this work, and has succeeded in perfecting his invention, by which the 19-conductor cable has been reduced to a one-conductor cable. By perfecting the appliance, the coast defense mine system can now be rehabilitated, with both initial and maintenance costs less than previous costs, and the system brought up to date. The first work of installation of the new cables will be made in Panama."

The Nelson system is adaptable to the present submarine-mine equipment with changes only in the cable and a small portion of the mine-casement equipment. The rubber insulation on the one-conductor cable invented by Sgt. Nelson deteriorates less rapidly than the insulation on the 19-conductor cable. On a 19-conductor cable very thin insulation must be used around each conductor, and more rapid deterioration resulted in less than seven years in tropical waters.

Much of the present 19-conductor cable lines which will be replaced by one-conductor cable is from 20 to 22 years old, and through deterioration has become useless. With the Nelson system, it is estimated that standardization of the submarine-mine systems in the U. S. with one-conductor cable, will cost $136,345; in Panama, $32,460; and in the insular possessions, $32,545, or a total of $201,350. Annual replacement costs will amount to $70,000 a year.

3rd Infantry Notes

IN order that eligible enlisted men of the garrison may have every opportunity to meet the entrance requirements for the Military Academy, Col. W. C. Sweeney, commanding Fort Snelling, has arranged for a West Point Detachment.

The detachment is to be commanded by Lt. K. E. Thiebaud, a graduate of West Point in the Class of '27. He will be assisted as instructor by other recent graduates of the Academy.

The men assigned to the detachment are: Pvt. F. D. Calkins, H. H. Crosson and R. S. Lyon of Hdqs. Co.; Pvt. (1st cl.) D. Lemon, Co. C; Pvt. (1st cl.) F. Kruger, Co. E; Pvt. B. E. O'Hagen, Co. L and Pvt. A. M. Hamilton, Co. M, 3d Inf.

The Company Club of Company "F," 3d Inf., gave a dinner at the company barracks, Nov. 12, in honor of Col. W. C. Sweeney, regimental commander. Col. Sweeney was accompanied by several members of his staff.

Capt. J. A. King, Q. M. C., arrived at Fort Snelling, Nov. 10. Capt. King comes to his new station from the San Francisco General Depot at Fort Mason, Calif.

Capt. F. M. Dyer, post and regimental adjutant of the 3d Inf., and Fort Snelling, went to Rochester, Minn., Friday, Nov. 9, where he spoke before a class of Reserve officers on "Military Law."

First Division Notes

THE motorized battalion of the 6th Field Artillery has returned to Fort Hoyle, Md., from Fort Leonard Wood where it had undergone a period of instruction.

Battery "A," 6th Field Artillery took part in the military carnival at Washington, D. C., and Batteries "B" and "D" participated in the Ordnance Demonstration at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.

The 1st Engineers, Fort DuPont, Del., are represented by a fast and powerful football team this year. The team's season has opened in a most encouraging manner and it is expected it will give a good account of itself.

URGES RILEY HOUSING CHANGE.

The Assistant Secretary of War, Col. Charles B. Robbins, has recommended amendment of H. R. 13825, the second James Housing bill, passed by the House May 28, 1928, in a letter to the Senate Military Committee on Nov. 7 which reads as follows:

"On Page 4, Line 14, after 'Fort Riley, Kansas,' strike out 'Officers' Quarters,' $200,000, and substitute therefor 'Non-commissioned officers' quarters, $114,000; nurses' quarters, $36,000; officers' quarters, $50,000.'"

"The effect of this amendment, if enacted into law, will be to authorize sufficient new construction to complete the actual present housing needs of noncommissioned officers and nurses. The necessity for this housing is more urgent than that for officers' quarters at Fort Riley."

"This amendment will not cause any change in the total cost of the bill nor in the total expenditure for construction at Fort Riley under the bill."

Makes Life Sweeter

Because of the way we live today, the things we eat, few are entirely free of acidosis. To help the system keep sound and sweet, take Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

Does a hearty meal give you an uncomfortable sense of fullness? Do rich foods disagree, or bring on sour stomach? Don't suffer, and don't diet. Try the universal sweetener that every physician endorses; that the public has found so helpful. It is a gentle corrective that every stomach needs at times; whenever a coated tongue, fetid breath, and acrid skin tells you the system needs sweetening.

Phillips is the genuine, prescriptional product; physicians endorse; the name is important.

SPECULATE ON STATE, WAR, NAVY CABINET SELECTIONS.

WITH the echoes of the election fading in the distance, discussion in Service circles now centers on whom President-elect Hoover is going to place in the Cabinet as his Secretaries of State, War and Navy. Current comment by the well-informed indicates that new men will fill these three important Cabinet posts.

In the State Department, several names have been mentioned, among them Ambassadors Houghton and Dwight Morrow. The latter is well known to the Services as Chairman of the Morrow Aircraft Board. Both diplomats are considered exceptionally well-fitted for the position. Former Ambassador Fletcher, who is going to accompany Mr. Hoover on his South American tour, is held another possibility.

For Secretary of War, it is understood that Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord, U. S. A., Ret., and ex-Senator James W. Wadsworth, former Chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, are considered most eligible.

General Harbord's eligibility is attested by his record in the Service prior to retirement and his direction of the Radio Corporation of America since. Born in Bloomington, Ill., General Harbord entered the Army in the Spanish-American War. Following the War, he played an important role in the establishment of orderly Government in the Philippines as Assistant Chief of the Constabulary, devoting eleven years to this service. During the World War, he served as Chief of Staff, A. E. F.; commander of the Marine Brigade at Chateau-Thierry and of the Second Division at Soissons offensive. He became Deputy Chief of Staff in 1922 and is ideally qualified as an administrator in every respect. Like Dwight Morrow, he served on the famed Morrow Aircraft Board, whose findings and recommendations were responsible for the adjustment of the Air Corps controversy. During the past campaign, General Harbord rendered yeoman service as Chairman of the Republican Finance Committee.

Senator Wadsworth is also considered well-fitted for the post of Secretary of War. While in Congress his efforts were always for the betterment of the Service and he was instrumental in aiding the enactment of practically all major National Defense measures.

With Secretary Wilbur's name coupled with rumors of a judicial appointment several possible appointees for the post of Secretary of the Navy have been mentioned. They are Mr. Ralph Williams, of Oregon, and Governor Fuller, of Massachusetts. Mr. Williams, a close personal friend of Mr. Hoover, is widely known in his home State as an executive. He has been active in Republican circles there, being National Committeeman since 1908. Governor Alvin T. Fuller, of Massachusetts, is nationally known because of his firmness in disregarding agitation in the Sacco-Vanzetti case. Honored by the people of Massachusetts twice by election to the highest office in the State, it is generally felt that he would make an excellent representative of New England in the Cabinet and an effective Secretary of the Navy.

RUSSIAN TRAVEL HELD DULL DUE TO "FEMME-INE."

CAPT. JOHN M. ENOCHS, U. S. N., familiarly known to his intimates as "Buck," who has been on duty in Chinese waters in command of the U. S. S. Asheville, reported to the Navy Department on Nov. 14 before starting on a month's leave, after which he will be assigned to duty.

His return from the Asiatic was by way of Russia and he gives an interesting version of his trip. Travel by way of the trans-Siberian railroad, a seven-day trip via Harbin to Moscow is O. K., according to the Captain who highly praises the clean linen and the food and service. It is intimated that the only fault he found was the paucity of feminine travelers taking this route.

J. A. G. APPOINTMENT CONFIRMS ONE-TERM POLICY.

INDICATING that a policy of limitation of Army Chiefs of Branches to one term of office will be followed in making appointments of Branch Chiefs, the Secretary of War announced on Nov. 13 the appointment of Col. Edward A. Kreger, J. A. G. D., as Judge Advocate General, U. S. A., with rank of Major General, effective Nov. 16, upon completion of the four-year term of Maj. Gen. John A. Hull as J. A. G. Maj. Gen. Hull, whom Maj. Gen. Kreger has succeeded, retired with rank of Major General on Nov. 16. Maj. Gen. Kreger, who was recommended for the Medal of Honor, and later awarded the D. S. C. for Philippine service and the D. S. M. for service as Judge Advocate General of the A. E. F. in France, was a Brigadier General during the World War. Maj. Gen. Hull during the World War was Judge Advocate, Service of Supply. Secretary Davis, in announcing appointment of a successor to Maj. Gen. Hull, emphasized the cordial relations and cooperation existing between The Judge Advocate General and the Secretary of War during Maj. Gen. Hull's term of office.

EXPECT 1929 MATCH AMMUNITION TO EQUAL 1925 LOT.

THE Ammunition Board appointed recently to determine upon ammunition for the 1929 National Rifle Matches will probably select ammunition for those matches equal to the 1925 high-velocity ammunition. Comments on the results of this year's firing at Camp Perry, Ohio, indicated that a great deal of high-velocity ammunition was privately purchased by participants, in contrast to the noticeable lack of private purchasing when the 1925 ammunition was fired. The 1925 ammunition with its great accuracy has been called the "ideal" Match ammunition. This year marksmen firing in all short and long range events of the National Matches except the National Team Match and the National Individual Match were permitted to use the high-velocity type of ammunition, and issues of the 1925 type were made to firers in the long-range events. In the National Team Match and National Individual Match use of the M-1 type standard service ammunition was requisite. Most marksmen, it is reported, preferred to fire with the 1928 ammunition which they were required to use in these events. An ammunition of 2,800 feet per second velocity was used by the United States and Cuban National Guard teams in the International Palma Match, it is stated. Reduction of shoulder recoil and possible danger from high chamber pressure have been mentioned as reasons for the reduction in velocity and chamber pressure made in the M-1 ammunition, which is "service ammunition" and was used in the 1928 Matches.

Another reason for the change was the decision of the Ammunition Board to use ammunition that could be produced in quantity as service ammunition, and the impracticability of producing service ammunition in quantity with a chamber pressure and initial velocity as high as was obtained in the special 1925 National Match ammunition indicated a change as desirable. Camp Perry entrants, it is reported, preferred ammunition of greater accuracy, even with a "kick," to the 1928 type standard service ammunition. No "hand-picked" selection of cartridges was prepared for the 1928 Matches, according to report, although the best of the lots received are always used. Both the Ordnance Department and the National Rifle Association have taken random samples of the 1928 ammunition for study. The Ordnance Department tests have shown a difference between the 1925 and 1928 ammunitions of 104 feet per second in velocity. These tests have shown that the 1925 and 1928 ammunitions are very similar in all respects, but differing in velocity. This reduction in velocity accounts for a difference in accuracy of the ammunitions in firing, particularly at long ranges. In addition with the 1928 ammunitions the firer must "dope wind" to ascertain wind effect on his shots. It is believed that the difference in accuracy of fire is more evident in shoulder firing, where the rifle must be held securely in the firer's grip, than in machine rest tests. Because of this, it has been urged that the 1929 ammunition be thoroughly tested by shoulder firing.

URGE EXTENSION OF WEST POINT VACANCIES.

THE Act of Congress making forty sons of Army officers who died prior to 1920 as a result of wounds received during the World War eligible for admission to West Point in addition to the number of Cadets otherwise appointed should be amended to include sons of Army officers permanently disabled as a result of World War wounds, many Army officers believe. While the present law has been in force for five years, the forty special vacancies each year have not been filled during these years. Responsibilities devolving upon the sons of Army officers who are eligible for appointment under this special provision of law, which in many cases keep them actively engaged in support of dependents, is considered one reason for the lack of applicants to fill these vacancies. The forty vacancies for the next class at West Point are as yet unfilled, Maj. Gen. Lutz Wahl, The Adjutant General, announced this week. It is believed by many officers that inclusion of sons of permanently disabled officers would enlarge the present restricted class of appointees enough to fill each yearly quota.

FIVE MEDICAL CORPS OFFICERS TO RETIRE IN 1930.

FIVE officers of the Medical Corps are scheduled to attain the statutory retirement age of 64 years in 1930. They are: Rear Adms. A. McCormick, president of the Naval Examining Board and Naval Retirement Board, on duty at Washington, D. C.; C. H. Lowndes, in command of the Naval Medical Supply Depot at Brooklyn, N. Y.; Capt. R. F. Crandall, of the Third Naval District; G. T. Smith, member of the Naval Examining Board for Medical Corps Officers, stationed at Washington, D. C.; and N. G. Blackwood, in command of the Naval Hospital, Puget Sound, Wash.

Rear Adm. E. R. Stitt, Surgeon General of the Navy, ends his four-year tour of duty Nov. 30.

MAJ. GEN. O'RYAN HELD RANKING RESERVE OFFICER.

ACCORDING to data on hand in the War Department, it is believed that Maj. Gen. John Francis O'Ryan, Organized Reserve, is the ranking Reserve officer of the Army of the United States. There are 16 Major Generals and 97 Brigadier Generals in the Organized Reserves, according to War Department figures of June 30, 1928. Of these, three Major Generals, including Maj. Gen. Creed C. Hammond, Chief of the Militia Bureau, and 49 Brigadier Generals are Organized Reserve officers. Thirteen Major Generals and 48 Brigadier Generals hold dual commissions in both the National Guard and Organized Reserves. Maj. Gen. O'Ryan, of New York City, was appointed a Major General on Dec. 15, 1920, and accepted his appointment on Feb. 10, 1921. He was reappointed on Dec. 12, 1925, and accepted the reappointment on Jan. 8, 1926. He is a graduate of New York University with the degrees L. L. B., 1903, and L. L. D., 1919, and a graduate of the Army War College, 1914. The General commanded the 27th Division, New York National Guard, during the World War. His military service dates back to 1897, when he enlisted in the 7th N. Y. Inf., N. Y. N. G.

BOY SCOUTS NOT DESIRED IN NATIONAL GUARD UNITS.

ENLISTMENT of Boy Scouts in National Guard units, reported to the Secretary of War in a letter from James E. West, Chief Scout Executive of the Boy Scouts of America, who forwarded reports from State Executives telling of false statements of birth dates, is not widespread, it was stated this week. In reply to the letter, the Secretary of War called attention to the fact that state authorities are responsible for enlistment of National Guard units, but that any violation of National Guard Regulations governing such enlistments might subject the offending state to withdrawal of Federal aid and recognition. He further suggested that the names of the officers alleged to have violated enlistment regulations be secured and submitted, and promised that a thorough investigation would be made of the specific cases reported.

THE U. S. NAVY — THE U. S. MARINE CORPS

Navy Pay Relief Essential

naval service of our effort to clarify the existing pay anomalies is most gratifying. That the Navy and Marine Corps are a unit in support of the definite basic principles we recommend, indicates we have gained our first objective. As we so stand "together," let us for the moment trisect that word, put in another "t" then add an "e"—the phrase reads: "To get there." Josh Billings once wrote "Consider the postage stamp, it sticks to one thing until it gets there!" Let us keep that postage stamp in mind in this and other relations as we cling to what we approve, and hope for its universal acceptance.

The members of the McNamee Board, with that initial step accomplished, see the first clouds looming. Our end will cost the Government money, and the comments of Representative Anthony, Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, in this regard are important. He now offers us no encouragement. Mr. Anthony says: "The Navy has been most liberally supplied with funds in recent years." He adds that the Navy need not hope "for further increase of its pay and the expense of its maintenance."

Admiral McNamee's recent splendid contribution to "The Cause," published last week in these columns, presents the picture of our national prosperity, as to which much has recently been said, disclosing, however, that while that happy condition has been extended to other branches of the public service the nation's defenders have not yet been permitted to share in that bounty.

The Congress, in truth, has been liberal in its appropriations for the Navy. An analysis, however, discloses this interesting condition: These appropriations have been restricted solely to materiel. In that development of naval materiel, much has been said as to "The well-balanced Fleet." That idea deserves to be spread into a wider field. The Navy has need for "The well-balanced Fleet," but does not the country's future need for "A well-balanced Navy" deserve consideration—that is, a Navy not of ships alone, but of the right kind of men? The McNamee Board, thinking solely of the Navy of the future, said:

"To maintain a naval service of the highest efficiency, it is important that expenditures of public funds continue for construction of new types of fighting craft. It is equally of moment that appropriations follow for the development, maintenance, and improvement of existing equipment and other materiel. But such expenditures, however necessary, cannot alone accomplish the desired end, namely,

COMDR. H. G. TAYLOR has been assigned to duty in the 16th Naval District with headquarters at Cavite, P. I.

Lt. (j. g.) H. A. Bolles has been detached from duty at the Navy Yard, New York, and will proceed to duty at the Naval Station, St. Thomas, V. I.

Capt. H. R. Stanford has been ordered to make an inspection of the Power Plant at the Navy Yard, Charleston, S. C., and is now engaged on that duty.

to make the fleet in all of its parts efficient."

Whether or not we shall continue to have the trained and inspired personnel comparable to that of today to command and to fight our new ships, is the question. Lord Fisher aptly stated: "Men fight, not ships." Mahan's often repeated quotation: "Historically good men with poor ships are better than poor men with good ships," will be true for all time. Certainly, good men will get the most there is out of poor materiel. It is equally certain that poor men will get little out of the best of materiel. Our Navy has always had the best of men—our prayer is that such condition may forever obtain! The McNamee report points out that if the Navy as a whole is to maintain a proper standard of efficiency, adequate expenditures must be made for its personnel, repeating in this relation the thought of a great military leader, that materiel in relation to personnel stands in proportion as does one to three. Admiral Henry A. Wiley, the Commander-in-Chief of the United States Fleet, has written of the existing dissatisfaction of his officers with present conditions, adding that the damage to morale observed throughout the Fleet, traceable for the most part to present naval pay anomalies, needs an early remedy. No comment thereto need be added by me.

Our Navy must be maintained in peace ready at the drop of the hat to turn to war. A German military writer, Ruchel, once wrote: "The spirit animating the officer corps is the spirit of the Army," a principle Nelson expressed in no different terms: "The spirit of the war room is the spirit of the Fleet." In peace morale must be built up as the stimulant essential to elevate our personnel to that pitch success in war requires. A prominent naval writer recently wrote: "Human nature is so constituted that an individual cannot be contented unless possessed of a settled plan of life which includes a cause to which complete loyalty is given." That such conditions do not prevail in the commissioned personnel, is indicated by the fact that since 1922—the date of the existing pay laws—the Navy has lost over three hundred young graduates of Annapolis, of whom some, doubtless, were potential Admirals, while all, it is ventured, were of our most promising future officers. Their resignations were traceable to the conditions the McNamee Board aims to correct. Let one of these officers here speak for himself:

"Having waited for nine years for better prospects, having seen those prospects dim until literally the bottom has fallen out of my chosen profession, having come to the time of life when I must decide definitely one way or the other . . . I have resigned. I love the Navy and I sincerely wish I could see my way clear to continue to serve therein. But I desire to repeat that I have spoken as I have because conditions in the Navy will no longer affect me, and because I wish to invite the serious attention of the Department to the injustice which has been inflicted and is being increasingly perpetuated upon as fine, efficient and loyal group of officers as there is in the service. Unless this injustice is rectified, I fear that the Navy will reap tenfold what it is has sown."

This officer, with the others, please remember, received his preliminary education at Government expense. His equipment was for the purposes of the Navy, not for the field of endeavor injustice compelled him to seek. Over $4,000,000 were invested in like equipment for naval objects in the cases of all these other young officers equally forced to turn to civil pursuits.

The subject may be approached from another angle, equally involving public expenditure. The General Board of the Navy, in a recently distributed public document, said: "In national security, more than in any other matter, efficiency must be paramount. There can be no economy in maintaining an inefficient Army and Navy no matter how little they cost. If they are inefficient they are a useless extravagance. No organization is economical which, in matters of national security, arranges its details so that money is saved at the expense of efficiency."

If the money we spend for the nation's security falls short of making it secure, would it not be more consistent to spend nothing? Anything short of adequate security seems but a wasteful pretense. While we now have an efficient Navy, our concern is that that condition shall continue. We ask not so much for more money for ourselves as for the building up for the future a well rounded, efficient Navy. If officers desiring to serve loyally, faithfully, and efficiently justly feel they are to be accorded no fair treatment in return for their services, can we hope to retain for the future Navy, officers of the proper equipment for the task our nation's security requires? No one suffering under real injustices can zealously maintain in

Naval Dental Corps

THE following changes in stations and duties of officers of the Dental Corps of the Navy have been recommended:

Lt. Comdr. R. C. Green to Nav. Trg. Sta., Hampton Roads, Va.; Lts. E. C. Johnson to U. S. S. Procyon; F. R. Hittinger to Nav. Hosp., Norfolk, Va.

Dr. J. A. Turrentine of San Francisco, Calif., who recently resigned from the Dental Corps, has been appointed a Lt. D. C.-V.(G.), in the Naval Reserve.

An examination for entrance to the Dental Corps is scheduled to begin on Dec. 3, 1928, at the U. S. Naval Medical School, Washington, D. C. himself and his subordinates that high standard of professional efficiency the naval service requires.

So, now it must be made clear to the public mind that that generosity in naval appropriations Mr. Anthony refers to has been restricted to keeping us supplied with good ships, good weapons, good powder, and good shot, nothing more; they sustain only the materiel, not the personnel, side. It must further be emphasized that the existing pay laws, at the same time, are shattering the morale of our personnel.

The time is not far distant when Admiral McNamee and his senior associates on the Pay Board will pass from the arena of naval endeavor. The major part of their active careers is finished. While we are grateful to our people for their generosity in equipping us with these fine weapons, the best of ships in the world, our hope as patriotic Americans is that that same generosity will now enable us to pass these weapons on into safe, surer, even better, hands for their further development as objects for use in securing peace to the nation. That hope rests upon our belief that the present naval pay laws are doomed to disappear from the statute books.

To that end, therefore, the basic thought the McNamee Board would lodge in all minds, in and out of the service, is that that deterioration in the morale of the Fleet shall be arrested. That is basic. Good morale is of supreme importance in peace and in war. It is of like import at all times, in all places and under all circumstances. It is not believed that the American public will deny the expenditure necessary to enable the Navy to foster and develop so important an attribute for the preservation of peace with security to our people.

Navy Supply Corps

OFFICERS of the Supply Corps and Chief Pay Clerks will change duties and stations as follows:

Capt. L. W. Jennings, Feb. 1, 1929, to duty as member of the U. S. Naval Mission to Brazil. Capt. Jennings will relieve Capt. H. deF. Mell, who will return to the United States.

Ens. Vernon Dortch and Gordon S. Ashley, recently transferred to the Supply Corps from the line of the Navy, have been ordered, respectively, to the U. S. S. Maryland and Tennessee for duty under instruction.

Chief Pay Clks. M. D. Burroughs to Ninth Naval District; T. W. Shea to Navy Yard, Norfolk, Va., relieving Chief Pay Clk. R. B. Miller who will report to the U. S. S. Arkansas, relieving Chief Pay Clerk N. O. Bickham for duty at the Naval Station, New Orleans, La.

Chief Pay Clk. Rufus Hendon from sick leave to duty in the U. S. S. Neches, relieving Chief Pay Clk. M. E. Thronson, who will go to treatment at San Diego Hospital. Chief Pay Clk. C. C. Jordan from Naval Air Station, Lakehurst, N. J., to duty in the U. S. S. Mercy.

Pay Clk. Aldis M. Ruston has been placed on the retired list of the Navy as of Nov. 15, 1928. James W. Frey serving on board the U. S. S. Medusa, has been promoted to Pay Clk., U. S. Navy, dating back to Mch. 22, 1928.

Marine Corps Notes

BRIG. GEN. BEN H. FULLER, U. S. M. C., was the guest of honor at the first fall meeting of the District of Columbia Marine Corps Reserve Officers' Association in Washington, D. C., on Nov. 13. Lt. Feist, U. S. M. C. R., of Philadelphia, was another guest. Lt. R. L. Whyte, U. S. M. C. R., exhibited motion pictures taken at the Quantico training camp. Lt. D. O'Regan, U. S. M. C. R., presided.

About three hundred Marines, including men from infantry, aviation and artillery units are to be withdrawn from Tientsin, China, to America on Dec. 15.

WALLACE BEERY in Blindfold test of leading cigarettes... says no brand can "double" for OLD GOLD

WALLACE BEERY... Popular Paramount screen star, who plays the leading dramatic roles in "Beggars of Life" and "The Tong War."

"You have heard of some actors that can't be 'doubled' in the movies. Well, OLD GOLD is like that. No other brand can 'double' its fine flavor and smoothness—even in the dark. That's why I picked it in the blindfold test. And that's why—from now on—OLD GOLD and I are going to be 'Partners in Crime.'"

Wallace Beery

Why You Can Pick Them... Three types of leaves grow on the tobacco plant, coarse top-leaves, irritating to the throat; withered ground-leaves, without taste or aroma, and the heart-leaves, rich in cool and fragrant smoking qualities. Only the golden-ripe heart-leaves are used in OLD GOLDS. That's why they are better.

How THE TEST WAS MADE

This test was conducted by the representative of a leading Eastern university and a disinterested witness selected by them. Mr. Beery was asked to smoke each of the four leading brands, while blindfolded, clearing his taste with coffee between smokes. Only one question was asked: "...which one do you like best?"

Compensation should be sufficient * * * to insure an officer more than bare living expense: and thereby enable him to give his best thought to the interests of the service rather than to problems of existence.—MCNAMEE PAY BOARD REPORT.

THE IMPORTANCE OF the promotion survey we are making is emphasized by the statements from Congressman James and Senator Reed, the former of which we published last week, and the latter we are publishing this week. It was because of our realization of the confusion that exists in the senatorial and congressional mind that we determined to make the survey. We have repeatedly stated the Congress is willing, yes, anxious, to restore contentment in the service, but it is told this by one group, that by another, and so on. It is important also that suspicion rested upon the methods and results of the War Department's investigation—suspicion that to our knowledge was unjustified. Upon the survey of the Army and Navy Journal, there can rest no suspicion. We are conducting it for the sole purpose of clarifying the congressional mind, and we believe it will have that effect.

We are gratified that the Army as a whole is showing hearty cooperation. Its response to our questions—the mails literally are crowded with reply cards—is revealing an understanding of the problem, a keen interest in the development of a solution, and a real purpose to inform Congress of the facts. We are proud to be the medium through which the Army's desires are expressed.

If you have not filled out your card do so at once. If you have mislaid the card, fill out the blank which we publish. Remember that this survey will be considered by the House and Senate Committees and have a great deal to do with enactment of legislation.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE BY his Armistice Day speech certainly left no illusions in the European mind. We commend that speech as a correct expression of America's foreign policy. The President clearly realized the menace of the Anglo-French naval agreement, and obviously appreciated that though it had been abandoned a rapprochement existed between the two countries which the United States could not afford to disregard. Therefore, he urged the construction of the type of cruisers peculiar to America's needs; and to impress the importance of this recommendation upon the American people and the world he authorized the publication by Secretary Wilbur of the admirable paper on naval policy which had been formulated by the General Board. We are confident Congress will adopt the President's viewpoint, a viewpoint with which Mr. Hoover is heartily in accord. We reiterate that the tremendous majority of the President-elect was due in part to the belief of the people in the necessity of a strong National Defense—a principle which the Republican candidate repeatedly proclaimed. Although the Democratic candidate remained silent on this subject, we know the Democratic Party, by its platform, is committed likewise to the principle; and we have such outstanding Democrats as Swanson, of Virginia, and McSwain, of South Carolina, ready to put it into effect.

THERE WAS ONLY one feature of the President's speech which failed to appeal to us. That was his statement that the Army is sufficiently large for the protection of our vast interests. We feel that here Mr. Coolidge is misinformed. He holds that the outstanding lesson of the war was the need of officers and officer material, and that with them efficient and available, it will be a comparatively easy thing to lick an Army into shape. Therefore, while approving a small enlisted force, he is opposed to any reduction in the number of regular officers. This is excellent as far as it goes, but the officers to be efficient must have men to train and with whom to train. Nor should it be forgotten that General Pershing put the men arriving in France through months of practice before permitting them to be utilized at the front. The Army and Navy Journal has never contended for a large Army, but it is in agreement with Secretary Weeks that 150,000 men are requisite for our pressing needs at home and abroad.

IN CLOSING our discussion of the President's speech, we cannot refrain from quoting the following paragraph:

"As we study the record of our Army in France we become more and more impressed by three outstanding features. The unity of American forces and the integrity of the American command were always preserved. They were trained with a thoroughness becoming the tradition of McClellan, they were fought with a tenacity and skill worthy of the memory of Grant. And finally they were undefeated. For these outstanding accomplishments, which were the chief sources of the glory of our Army, we are indebted to the genius of General Pershing."

AS THE years pass, the incomparable service Pershing rendered is receiving the recognition it deserves. It is now realized that the World War revealed him as a superb organizer, a clear thinker, a foremost strategist, and, to use the President's word, a "genius" in the art of war. But peace is showing him also as a modest, unassuming gentleman, doing the day's job, and standing upright for American principles. He is a tower of strength to the country.

WE CALL THE attention of the Prohibition Enforcement Branches of the Departments of the Treasury and Justice to a gross misuse of the American uniform, and we demand that orders be given putting an end to the practice. In Los Angeles, a man, wearing the regulation navy uniform, was used as a "stool pigeon" to buy liquor, and three arrests followed. City Public Defender Orfila declared that it was "a disrespectful action on the part of the police to put our Nation's Navy's uniform to such use." We are in entire agreement with Mr. Orfila. We are confident Secretary Wilbur will have an investigation made of this incident, and that he will take the necessary steps to protect the uniform from such degrading misuse.

T. J. B. Edgewood Arsenal, Md., is 45 minutes from Baltimore via the railroad. A private car is necessary for going around the post or for commuting to town. The Post school includes the seventh grade.

Servants, colored, are usually available at $2 per day or $12 per week, including lodging furnished them. There is a post commissary and a post exchange. Quarters are available for officers assigned, and one room is maintained by the Officers' Club for visiting officers. There are no hotels or apartments in the immediate vicinity of Edgewood Arsenal. Roads nearby are paved, with the exception of a short dirt road. These paved roads lead to all the large cities along the Atlantic Seaboard, and are open all year. Golf, tennis, and swimming are popular at Edgewood Arsenal. A golf course is located at the post, as well as tennis courts. The climate is moderate, with good weather. Woolen O. D. clothing is worn in winter, and cotton O. D. in summer. The Chemical Warfare Service troops garrison Edgewood Arsenal. A Protestant Post Chaplain conducts services each Sunday morning. The following posts are located near Edgewood Arsenal: Fort Hoyle, Md., on the same reservation; Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., 45 minutes by motor or 20 minutes by rail; Camp Holabird, Md., one hour and 15 minutes by rail and tram line; Camp Meade, Md., one hour and 45 minutes by rail and tram; Fort Howard, Md., one hour and 15 minutes by rail and tram; Annapolis Naval Academy, Md., within one hour and 30 minutes train ride from Edgewood Arsenal. Havre de Grace, where horse races are held twice a year, is within one hour's drive by auto or 30 minutes' ride by train.

Was Pershing a Great General?

Could American Generals and Staffs be trusted with Modern Armies?
Did West Point, Leavenworth and the other Service schools justify themselves?
What part did schools like Culver and the V. M. I. play?
Was the National Guard an important factor?
Had materialism and pacifism destroyed the warrior qualities of our people?
Did American military traditions and customs stand the strain of a continental European war?
These and many similar questions having to do both with our War Army and the organization and training of our Army today are frankly discussed in the new book—by Brig. General Henry J. Reilly, R. O. C.

AMERICA'S PART

Major General James G. Harbord, first Chief of Staff of the A. E. F., says in the preface: "The primary requisite for such a work as this is the ability to accumulate the pertinent facts, and the possession of a background of knowledge and experience such that the facts accumulated can be properly grouped together and analyzed to produce the truth. Such qualifications produce a good Commanding Officer in battle and a good reporter in peace. General Reilly's record shows him to have been both."

General Reilly answers those foreigners and Americans who claim that America's money, but not her Army, played a decisive part in the war.

Team Makes Good Showing

For the second time in two years, the U. S. Army's fine Horse Show Team from Fort Riley was nosed out of first honors in the International Military Trophy emblematic of the world's military jumping championship at the National Horse Show in New York City Nov. 13.

Last year Poland's team of splendid cavalymen flashed to the front, taking the course with only 1½ faults. Poland was closely pressed by Maj. Sloan Doak's U. S. team, which ranked second with 3½ faults.

On Nov. 13 the crack German cavalymen, here for the first time since the war, galloped off with the much treasured event, with a total of 9 faults, closely followed by the United States and Poland's winners of last year—each team with a total of 9½ faults. In the ensuing jump-off, the United States easily won with 7 faults to Poland's 12.

The United States team was made up of Maj. H. D. Chamberlin on "Dick Waring," Capt. W. B. Bradford on "Joe Alshire," and Lt. E. Y. Argo on "Miss America." Although not victorious in the International Military Jumping event, the United States Army team was declared to have provided the outstanding performances of the 1928 National Horse Show, having won more ribbons and cash prizes than any other team.

On the opening day, Capt. Bradford on "Buckaroo" took the Jan Ciechanowski Challenge Cup and Maj. C. P. George on "Solitaire" won the middleweight green hunter class. On the second day the United States Army team won the Westchester Challenge Cup. Capt. Bradford won the Brooks-Bright Foundation Cup for jumpers on the fifth day of the show. The Army team won the President's Cup, and second in the Hunt, teams class. The five-foot jumping class also went to the Army. Gen. Pershing's war horse "Proctor" was named middleweight champion hunter of the show, with the Army's "George Williams" in reserve. Capt. F. L. Carr's "Barrington" was awarded the heavyweight hunter championship.

Housing Progress Reported

ARMY housing construction work under the 1927-29 programs now being carried out will provide new quarters for 1,190 officers, 1,355 noncommissioned officers, 25,415 enlisted men, 1,897 hospital patients, and 311 nurses, Brig. Gen. W. E. Horton, Chief of Construction Service, Quartermaster Corps, announced this week, giving a detailed statement similar to that of Rep. W. Frank James, ranking member of the House Military Affairs Committee, which appeared in the Army and Navy Journal of July 7.

Building of Air Corps facilities, including the new Randolph Field training center at San Antonio, Tex., and monuments, reconstruction of historic forts and buildings, and disposal of 43 military reservations in whole or in part are being done by the Quartermaster Corps.

All projects in the 1927 program, cost $7,020,000, are completed or in course of construction. All 1928 projects, to cost $5,277,000, are under contract or being advertised. All 1929 projects will be contracted for before work starts under the 1930 program. Money for the 1929 program totals $6,469,000.

Britten Assails Pact

"When Lloyd George said on Nov. 14 on the floor of Parliament that American confidence in England and Europe had been shattered, he told the truth," said Chairman Fred A. Britten of the House Committee on Naval Affairs of the House, "and when Prime Minister Baldwin defended the recent inglorious Anglo-French compromise, he proved everything that Lloyd George had said against it."

"Mr. Baldwin is in error when he says that British and American statesmen do not understand each other. The true basis of American statesmanship is honesty of purpose coupled with frank open expression of opinion, while the very heart of European diplomacy is the art of deception, the soul of trickery."

Small-Bubble Lather :::: The Secret!!

A Quick Shave this

Saves time between Bed and Breakfast

Faster, smoother, better than any you've ever known before. Read how this small-bubble lather soaks whiskers soft in a scientific way

HERE'S some good shaving news, men. It's the story of a better way . . . an easy way . . . a quick and scientific way to get your whiskers off.

There's really no mystery to it. We've simply made a vastly better shaving cream . . . and men are switching to it by the thousands.

Small bubbles . . . that's the theory of it. You'll feel the difference the minute you try it. Feel it in the smoothness of your face . . . in the delightful freshness of your skin. There's no razor-pull, sting or smart. No drag or scrape. You get a quicker, smoother, easier shave . . . and you get it with a smile!

It's a small-bubble lather. For small bubbles hold more water. They carry it closer to the base of your beard.

The minute you brush Colgate's on your face two things happen: First, the soap in the lather breaks up the oil film that covers each hair . . . floats it quickly away. Then billions of tiny, moisture-laden bubbles seep down through your beard . . . crowd around each whisker . . . soak it soft with water at the base.

Instantly your beard gets moist and pliable . . . limp and lifeless. Whiskers come off quick and clean . . . without razor-pull, sting or smart.

You've never had a shave like this before. You've never known such comfort.

At any canteen or on any ship . . . just ask for Colgate's. Or if you prefer, try it first at our expense. We'll gladly send a seven-day trial tube to any fair-minded man. Jot your name and address on the coupon below . . . mail it to us today!

DEFER TOMB DESIGN AWARD.

After viewing Nov. 14 the five semifinal entries from which the design for completion of the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery will be chosen, the jury of award announced it will inform Secretary of War Davis of its selection in three or four weeks.

Conferences are to be held first, it was said, with representatives of the American Battle Monuments, Arlington National Cemetery and Fine Arts Commissions. Members of the jury called on President Coolidge after their meeting at the Munitions Building and were entertained at luncheon by Secretary Davis.

Asks Generaley Bill Change

also that the bill become effective upon the vacation of office by the present Chief of Staff. This proviso having been eliminated, it is recommended that the bill be amended as recommended by the Secretary of the Navy.

"The proposed amendment is as follows: 'That hereafter the Chief of Staff of the Army, while holding office as such, shall have the rank and title of general, and shall receive the pay and allowances of a major general and, in addition thereto, the personal money allowance prescribed by law for the officer of the Navy serving as Chief of Naval Operations. The Chief of Staff of the Army and the Chief of Naval Operations shall take rank between themselves according to dates of commission in the advanced rank: held by them while serving as such and shall both take rank above all other officers on the active list of the Army and Navy.'

"The necessity for the latter part of the above change is apparent when it is recalled that there are three officers of the Navy holding the temporary rank of admiral while commanding fleets or subdivisions thereof and above whom the Chief of Naval Operations and the Chief of Staff should undoubtedly take precedence regardless of dates of appointment to temporary rank.

"I trust your Committee will see fit to amend the bill and expedite its enactment." The present bill which passed the House reads: " * * * dates of appointment as such."

Organized Reserves

MANY GUARD OFFICERS IN O. R. C.

With reference to that portion of Section 38, National Defense Act, providing for the appointment of National Guard officers as reserve officers for the period during which their Federal recognition shall continue, a recent examination of the records of the Militia Bureau showed that on June 30, 1923, 3,680 National Guard officers, or about 38 per cent of those who were Federally recognized, held appointments in the Officers' Reserve Corps.

This figure has increased at an approximate rate of seven per cent a year and on June 30, 1928, 9,154, or about 75 per cent of a total of 12,224 recognized officers had been so appointed. Further progress has been made since June 30th, and nearly one-half of all the States of the United States now have more than 75 per cent of their National Guard officers appointed in the Officers' Reserve Corps. In addition, the records also show 669 warrant officers and enlisted men of the National Guard now hold appointments in the Officers Reserve Corps, which is a very marked increase over former years.

NEW YORK RESERVE.

New York (Special).—The first regular meeting for the 1928-29 season for the Medical Section, Line and Staff School, was held recently in the Army Building, 39 Whitehall St., with a fine attendance of Reserve and Regular Army officers.

The speaker of the evening was Brig. Gen. S. H. Wadhams, Med. Res., who was introduced by Col. Truby, the Corps Area Surgeon. General Wadhams chose for his subject, "The Organization and Development of the Medical Service in the A. E. F. in France," which he described from its earliest stage following the arrival of General Pershing with his staff and traced to its full development at the time of the Armistice, when over 200,000 sick and wounded were being cared for. As the first of our medical officers on the ground he told of how he helped prepare the way for an expeditionary force that is unique in our history, from a military standpoint.

CINCINNATI RESERVE.

Cincinnati (Special).—Col. C. B. Robins, the Assistant Secretary of War, and Col. David L. Stone, Inf., U. S. A., Executive for Reserve Affairs, on duty in the War Department, will be guests of the Cincinnati Chapter, R. O. A. today. On Nov. 21 members of the R. O. T. C. at the University of Cincinnati will be guests of the chapter at luncheon. Lt. Col. J. R. Musgrave, C. A. C., U. S.

D. C. RESERVE.

R. M. Hudson, Assistant Director National Bureau of Standards, U. S. Department of Commerce, in an address given before a meeting of the Quartermaster Reserve Officers here on Nov. 14, spoke on simplification and standardization in connection with the study of Army procurement problems.

Army Officers Retired

The War Department this week announced the retirement and coming retirements of Col. Nathan D. Ely, J. A. G. D.; Col. Henry M. Merriam, C. A. C., to take effect May 1, 1929, after more than 30 years' service; Lt. Col. Julian A. Benjamin, Cav., who will proceed to his home about Nov. 21 and await retirement, and Lt. Col. Leonard W. mountain artillery standard outfit, and an experimental Art. pack cooking outfit, is now practically completed. Various types of toilet pouches have been tested and recommendation for the adoption of the most suitable type is under consideration by the A. G. A test of alligator type raincoats is under way by the Inf., Cav. and F. A. Boards, with a view toward adoption for use in the U. S. The Phillips' pack saddle, a lightweight saddle, for use in the Philippines, was developed at Jeffersonville Depot and is under test by an Inf. regiment in the Philippines. Upon recommendation of the Chief of Cav., consideration has been given to adoption of shoulder loops on olive drab shirts to prevent cartridge belts from slipping off shoulders of mounted troops. It is believed this difficulty can be overcome by lessening distance between keepers on cartridge belt suspenders. Action has been deferred pending test of modified suspenders. Development work on a satisfactory chain for the identification tag and better method of stamping tags is in progress. There is under construction at the Jeffersonville Depot a spring wagon, for F. A. testing. A Wynne oil burner, for use with field ranges, has in its present state of development proved unsatisfactory.

A food container of the Stanley gallon-jug type, recommended for adoption for emergency use, has not been favorably considered by the A. G. and is being given further study. A cotton service cap to replace the campaign hat for troops in Panama is under consideration. Gratuitous use of cleansing and preserving materials for individual and personal equipment has been recommended to the A. G. at an approximated cost of 50 cents a month per man. Results of study of the question of issuing labor saving devices, such as electric dish washers, bread cutting machines, meat slicers, potato peelers, harnessing machines, etc., to troops, such issue inadvisable and inexpedient from economical and practical standpoints and recommendation so made.

Chief of Field Artillery:

The commissioned strength of the F. A. on June 30, 1928, was 1,432, including four officers detailed from other branches, and not including 48 2d lieutenants, commissioned from the 1928 West Point class. Under present conditions, F. A. officers serve with organizations, on an average, as follows: Colonels, five years in 10; Lt. cols., three years in 10; majors, two years in 10.

"This statement emphasizes the importance of having battery officers serve the maximum practicable with regular organizations and thus acquiring thorough basic training in the handling of field artillery. Once the Field Artillery officer has passed the grade of captain, his service with regular troops will, on the average, be only about 33 1-3 per cent of the time.

"The situation, with respect to enlisted personnel for the fiscal year 1928, showed an improvement over 1927. In 1927, the actual strength averaged 90.5 per cent of the authorized recruiting allotment, whereas, in 1928, the average rose to 92.5 per cent."

The strength of the F. A. Section, O. R. C., on June 30, 1928, was 9,944, not including Reserve officers holding National Guard commissions.

Chief of C. W. S.

C. W. S. manufacturing has been limited to production for training purposes except for systematized large-scale production of gas masks for war reserve. Continued chemical warfare training for army officers and testing of the Field Officers' Course at Edgewood Arsenal, have been accomplished. The F. O. course will be continued. Research has been made into supplies and particularly protective appliances.

TO CONFER ON COLLEGES.

At the request of Dr. A. G. Crane, president of the University of Wyoming, Laramie, Wyoming, chairman of the Committee on Military Organization and Policy of the Association of Land Grant Colleges, the Secretary of War has designated Brig. Gen. Frank Parker, Assistant Chief of Staff for Training and Operations, as War Department representative to confer with Dr. Crane's committee during the sessions of the Association of Land Grant Colleges to be held Nov. 20 to 23 in Washington, D. C.

THREE MILLION FILE FOR BONUS.

During the fiscal year 1928, The Adjutant General of the Army received from veterans of the World War, or their dependents, 216,158 applications for adjusted compensation, making a grand total of 3,285,216 applications received since the enactment of the measure.

SEVENTH DIVISION REUNION.

The Sixth Annual Reunion of the Seventh Division Association will be held in Washington today, Nov. 17, 1928. Reunion headquarters will open in the Mayflower Hotel at 9 a. m. At noon a buffet luncheon will be served in connection with the annual business meeting of the Officers' Association, which is sponsoring the reunion. At the business meeting the annual election of officers will take place. The reunion dinner will be held in the evening at 7 o'clock.

The Division had five commanding generals as follows: Brig. Gen. G. H. Barth, Brig. Gen. Lutz Wahl, Maj. Gen. E. Wittenmeyer, Brig. Gen. G. H. Preston, and Maj. Gen. E. F. McGlachlin, jr.

Radio Notes

THE Washington-Alaska Military Cable and Telegraph System has shown a remarkable increase in traffic handled in the past year.

Improvements are planned for the Alaska System, particularly by the installation of new high power, high frequency radio sets to establish alternate channels from Seattle to points in Alaska.

The Third Infantry Band will again be on the air from KSTP, the National Battery Station of St. Paul, on the evening of Dec. 6, from 9 to 10 o'clock. This program will consist of a selection from famous composers, opening with "March of the Toys," from Victor Herbert's "Babes in Toyland"; the overture from "Stradella," by von Fictow; the "Swedish Wedding March," by Soderman, a ballet suite from Saint Saen's Opera, "Henry VIII," and a selection of the melodies from "William Tell."

Aeronautical Notes

ARMY planes will participate in the dedication exercises of the municipal airport at Jacksonville on Dec. 1, 2 and 3, provided that Army personnel will not be called upon to fly on Dec. 2, which falls upon Sunday.

The Navy's newest patrol plane, the PN11 recently flown from the Naval Aircraft Factory, Philadelphia, where it had been built, to the Naval Air Station Anacostia, D. C., for performance trials by the Navy Test Board, was completely destroyed by fire Nov. 14 on the beach near Bellevue, D. C. The plane was being flown by Lt. S. W. Calloway and Lt. D. W. Tomlinson, the latter at the controls. Neither of the pilots was injured.

It is believed that the gasoline line to the port engine broke at some point within the engine nacelle and the gasoline was ignited from the exhaust.

H. S. Griesy, chief aviation pilot, attached to the U. S. S. Langley, has received a letter of commendation for his action in preventing a plane crash on Sept. 25.

Air Corps Strength Given

THE actual enlisted strength of the Army Air Corps was 9,608 men on Sept. 30, according to the monthly A. C. report. On that date there were altogether 6,803 officers in the Air Reserve. Actual commissioned personnel strength was 1,083.

probably has made its last flight, Lt. Col. J. A. Paegelow, commandant of Scott Field, announced Nov. 12.

San Antonio, Tex. (Special).—Six men were killed and another was injured when an Army transport plane crashed Nov. 14 from 4,000 feet in the air to a spot near here on the Corpus Christi road, 10 miles east of Brooks Field.

The dead are: Pvt. A. W. Hardesty, N. Villereal, C. W. Harris, H. W. Gauldin, D. T. McClusky and I. Self; Lt. H. F. Dyer, pilot, and Staff Sgt. F. J. Siedenaler, who was in the front seat with him, escaped death. Dyer was unhurt, but Siedenaler received a broken rib.

To maintain high quality performance in your radio set, replace all the vacuum tubes with a new set of RCA Radiotrons at least once a year. Do not put new tubes with old ones that have been long in use.

Navy Policy Announced

ALMOST coincident with President Coolidge's Armistice Day speech with its outspoken declaration for an adequate Navy, the Navy Department made public on Nov. 13 the recently approved U. S. Naval Policy, the first promulgation by the General Board since the policy made public in 1922, shortly after the Washington Conference.

Embodying the principles laid down by the American Government in its recent reply to the ill-starred British proposal and in line with the President's utterances, the new policy differs from the old largely in the stress it lays on the importance of large cruisers and submarines for greater cruising radius and for the recognition given the increased value of aviation.

The following is the full text:

United States Naval Policy.

Naval policy is the system of principles, and the general terms of their application, governing the development, organization, maintenance, training and operation of a navy. It is based on and is designed to support national policies and national interests. It comprehends the questions of number, size, type and distribution of naval vessels and stations, the character and number of the personnel, and the character of peace and war operations.

Fundamental Naval Policy of United States.

The Navy of the United States should be maintained in sufficient strength to support its policies and its commerce, and to guard its continental and overseas possessions.

The Washington Treaty limiting naval armament is the supreme law of the powers party to the treaty governing their armaments as to capital ships, aircraft carriers and the size and armament of cruisers. The spirit of the treaty indicates two elements of international import: A general desire to avoid competition in naval armament and a partial recognition of a ratio in naval strengths as a means of avoiding competition. Should any power undertake a program of expansion in unrestricted classes of naval vessels or in personnel not consistent with the treaty ratios of capital ships, a new competition in naval strengths would thereby be initiated.

Until such time as other powers by inequitable conduct in international relations as to United States interests or by their departure from the idea of a suspended competition in naval armaments, indicate other procedure, the Navy of the United States may be governed in naval strengths by the spirit of the capital ship ratios, otherwise it will be necessary appropriately to readjust our naval policy.

General Naval Policy.

To create, maintain and operate a navy second to none; and in conformity with the ratio for capital ships established by the Washington Treaty limiting naval armament.

To make war efficiency the object of all training and to maintain that efficiency during the entire period of peace.

To develop and to organize the Navy for operations in any part of either ocean.

To make strength of the Navy for battle of primary importance.

Football Games Scheduled

November 24.

ARMY v. Nebraska University, at West Point.

NAVY v. Princeton University, at Philadelphia.

MARINES v. Lebanon Valley College, at Scranton, Pa.

November 29.

COAST GUARD v. Camillus College of Buffalo, N. Y., at New London.

To make strength of the Navy for exercising ocean-wide control of the sea with particular reference to the protection of American interests, and overseas and coast-wise commerce next in importance.

To encourage, and endeavor to lead in, the development of the art and material of naval warfare.

To give every possible encouragement to civil aviation with a view to advancing the art and to providing aviators and aircraft production facilities available for war.

To cultivate friendly and sympathetic relations with the world by foreign cruises.

To support in every possible way American interests, especially the expansion and development of American foreign commerce and an American Merchant Marine.

To maintain a Marine Corps of such strength that it will be able adequately to support the Navy by furnishing detachments to vessels of the fleet in full commission, guards for shore stations, garrisons for outlying positions; and by the maintenance in readiness of an expeditionary force.

To cooperate fully and loyally with all Departments of the Government.

Building and Maintenance Policy.

To build and maintain an efficient well-balanced fleet in all classes of fighting ships in accordance with the capital ship ratios; and to preserve these ratios by building replacement ships and by disposing of old ships in accordance with continuing programs.

To make superiority of armament in their class an end in view in the design of all fighting ships.

To provide for great radius of action in all classes of fighting ships.

Capital Ships.

To prepare and maintain detailed plans for new capital ship construction.

To replace existing capital ships in the years specified in accordance with treaty provisions.

To keep all retained capital ships modernized as far as treaty terms permit, and good practice justifies.

Aircraft Carriers.

To build and maintain aircraft carrier tonnage allowed by the Washington Treaty limiting naval armament.

To prepare detailed type plans for the rapid conversion of suitable merchant vessels to aircraft carriers.

To design aircraft carriers with hangar space such that the maximum number of heavy class planes may be carried.

Cruisers.

To support the Fleet and protect our commerce, replace all old cruisers with modern cruisers of 10,000 standard tons displacement carrying 8-inch guns and, in addition, to build similar cruisers at a rate that will maintain effective cruiser tonnage in conformity with the capital ship ratios as established by the Washington Treaty limiting naval armament.

Small Cruisers and Gunboats.

To build no small cruisers. To build replacement gunboats as required.

Destroyers.

To build and maintain effective destroyer tonnage in conformity with the capital ship ratios, giving priority to destroyer leaders.

Submarines.

To build and maintain effective submarine tonnage in conformity with the capital ship ratios.

General Types.

Eagle Boats—To build no more. Sub-chasers—To build no more. Mine Layers and Mine Sweepers—To maintain a sufficient number for training and development work. Auxiliaries—Colliers, Oilers, Supply Ships, Transports, Cargo Vessels, Tenders, Fleet Repair Ships, Target Repair Ships, Hospital Ships, Ammunition Ships—To maintain a minimum number consistent with training and mobility of the Fleet. Aircraft Repair and Store Ships—To provide and maintain as necessary. Submarine Rescue Ships—To provide and maintain as necessary. Tugs—To maintain a minimum number needed for active employment with the Fleet and at shore stations. Dispatch Boats—To maintain a sufficient number for Fleet and district service. Conversion—To prepare detailed type plans for rapid conversion of suitable merchant vessels for naval use in war.

Aircraft.

Heavier-than-Air—To direct the development and employment of Naval Aviation primarily to the fulfillment of its principal mission, namely, operations at sea with the Fleet.

To direct the development of heavier-than-air craft principally in the two classes that can operate from ships, viz: (1) Light Planes for fighting, spotting, tactical scouting, and diving bombing; (2) Heavy Planes for torpedoes, heavy bombs, and long distance scouting. To combine as many functions in a single plane in each class as can be done with efficiency. To continue the development of a seaplane of long range for sea operations from a ship or from a naval base. To operate airplanes from capital ships and cruisers to their full authorized complement. To determine by trial the practicability and desirability of operating airplanes from all classes of naval vessels.

Lighter-than-Air—To complete the rigid airships now under construction, or being appropriated for, with a view to determining by operation, primarily with the Fleet, their utility for military operations. To (Please turn to Page 237.)

A. W. C. "WORLD'S SERIES."

THE Athletics, Yankees, Senators, White Sox and Tigers fought to a finish in the "world series" baseball games played at the Army War College this week. Colonels, majors, and lieutenants, age no restriction, composed the teams which battled for the pennant.

The game, as played at the College, although not quite following the stricter baseball regulations, nevertheless accounted for just as many bruised shins, sprained thumbs, and stubbed toes as did any world series.

In addition to this series for the pennant, there is a challenge cup series played each Fall and Spring, in which the one faculty nine and the six student teams fight it out to the last pant, or perhaps it is pants. The cup was presented by the class of 1922-23.

The various teams and their percentages are as follows: Athletics, .900; Yankees, .700; Senators, .637; Browns, .455; Indians, .455; White Sox, .364; and Tigers, .083.

ARMY BOWS TO NOTRE DAME.

West Point (Special).—The Army football eleven meets Carlton College here today after losing its first game of the season to Knute Rockne's Notre Dame team last week by a score of 12-6.

The whistle blew too soon for the Army team to make the touchdown that would have meant a tie and possibly, victory. Cagle, after receiving the last kick-off, ran sixty yards which carried the Army within striking distance of the Notre Dame goal posts.

NAVY TIES MICHIGAN.

Annapolis (Special).—The Navy's football battle this week is with Loyola, of Baltimore, after emerging with a 6-6 tie in the game with the University of Michigan last week.

ARMY GRIDDERS TRACK STARS.

West Point (Special).—Almost half the membership of Army's football squad of 38 players are members of the Military Academy track team, according to Maj. P. B. Fleming, Graduate Manager of Athletics, who has just investigated athletic activities of the A football squad in other fields of sport.

11TH INFANTRY POLOISTS PLAY.

Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind. (Special).—The Eleventh Infantry Polo Team recently played a series of two games against the Louisville Country Club Team, winning one and losing one.

The contests were arranged by Col. H. P. Hobbs, Commanding Officer, 11th Inf., and attracted widespread interest. The entire proceeds of the second game were donated to the Army Relief Society.

The first game went to the doughboys by the score of 17-8, while the Country Club annexed the second 8-5.

FT. McPHERSON WINS.

Ft. McPherson (Special).—A whirlwind finish on the part of the Governor's Horse Guards of Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 11, fell short of victory, and the Ft. McPherson riders galloped to a 7-6 win.

MARINES WIN AGAIN.

Norfolk (Special).—The heavy Marine team, which meets Loyola University of Chicago, at Chicago this week, ran roughshod over the lighter Washington College eleven last week to a victory of 57 to 0.

1ST INFANTRY LOSES.

Fort Russell (Special).—In the football game recently between the First Infantry team of Fort Russell and St. Regis College of Denver the victory went to St. Regis College by a score of 19 to 8.

MARINES WIN MEET.

The Marine team from the Marine Detachment at the American Legation, Peking, China, won the international track and field meet held on Nov. 12. The Marines' score was 50½, the British 49, and the Italians 20½.

AWARDED RIFLE MEDALS.

San Francisco (Special).—Former seaman M. Pruitt, was awarded the Gold Pershing Medal, a silver team medal and a distinguished marksman's medal for being the highest individual scorer in the Camp Perry matches.

SPEAKING of SPORTS

ARMY'S hopes for the National Football title received a severe setback at Yankee Stadium last week-end. Notre Dame's "six of one and half-a-dozen of the other" scoring did the trick.

If Notre Dame downs Carnegie Tech and other leading title contenders stumble before the season ends, the Cadets still have a chance for premier ranking. Particularly, if they take Nebraska, the Mid-west leader into camp Nov. 24.

Speaking of comparators, Notre Dame beat Navy 7-0 and Army 12-6. Does this mean that the Navy is five points stronger than Army or six points weaker? The only answer is an Army-Navy game.

Baltimore was soundly spanked by Comdr. Ingram, Navy Athletic Director, for the "poor gate" drawn by the Navy-Michigan contest. He intimated that no games would be played there next year. Navy's record this year does not call for record-breaking throngs even in a Navy town. There is an axiom, "Good teams make good gate receipts!"

When it comes to undefeated teams, "Tell it to the Marines." The Leatherneck eleven has not lost a game for so long that winning is becoming a habit.

NAVY LISTS THREE GAMES.

A partial schedule of the games to be played by Navy next year is as follows: Notre Dame, Oct. 12; Georgetown at Annapolis, Oct. 19; Penn. at Philadelphia, Oct. 26; and Ohio State College, at Columbus, Nov. 16.

WASHINGTON BARRACKS, D. C.
November 16, 1928.

THE pleasant custom of the officers and ladies on this post of the Army War College, Commandant and Mrs. William D. Connor, staff and members of the faculty, to observe the first Sunday in each month as their day "at home" has been resumed for this season.

The first reception day of this month Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Connor had Mrs. Milley, a sister of Mrs. Connor and Mrs. George S. Simonds to pour, the ladies sitting at opposite ends of a beautifully arranged large table. Mrs. John L. DeWitt, Mrs. John K. Herr, Mrs. Andrew Moses and Mrs. James F. Johnston assisted the host and hostess in entertaining the large number of callers.

Col. J. D. Taylor, an instructor of the Army War College, has been ordered to China for duty and with Mrs. Taylor will probably sail early in the new year. During Col. Taylor's six weeks' absence at Fort Benning, taking the refresher course, Mrs. Taylor is visiting old friends in New York, having been the house guest of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Hanson E. Ely, at Governors Island.

Maj. and Mrs. T. W. Hammond entertained at an afternoon tea in compliment to Capt. and Mrs. M. H. McIntyre, of New York.

Col. and Mrs. L. B. Kromer are being welcomed in Faculty Row with their charming family of five: Misses Rosetta and Jane; John, Leon and William. Col. Kromer comes for Army War College staff duty, directly from the Presidio at Monterey, Calif. Mrs. Kromer is one of two daughters of the late Col. John M. Stotsenburg, whom everyone knew and loved, and Mrs. Stotsenburg. The service will recall that Camp Stotsenburg, Pampanga Province, Philippine Islands, is named after Col. Stotsenburg. Mrs. Stotsenburg is now with her daughter Laura, Mrs. Mayo, and Col. Mayo at Fort Sheridan, Ill., but will shortly come to this post to be with Col. and Mrs. Kromer and family.

Col. and Mrs. H. S. Grier have had as their house guest, Mrs. Francis Dohs of West Point. Mrs. Dohs has just left for home after being extensively entertained. Mrs. Troup Miller gave a luncheon at her home in compliment to Mrs. Dohs. Mrs. John K. Herr entertained at a tea in honor of Mrs. Dohs. Col. and Mrs. Grier gave a dinner party to their house guest, Mrs. Dohs, at the Army War College Club, also a tea on Sunday afternoon.

FORT RUSSELL, WYO.

MAJ. GEN. B. F. CHEATHAM, Quartermaster General, arrived at Fort Russell on Sunday, Nov. 4. Gen. Cheatham was quite favorably impressed with the condition and improvements made at Fort Russell, and stated that "There is no comparison between Fort Russell now and when I last saw it."

On Sunday afternoon a reception and tea was given at the Quarters of Gen. and Mrs. F. C. Bolles in honor of Gen. Cheatham. All of the officers and ladies of the garrison attended. Among the guests from Cheyenne who attended were Governor and Mrs. Emerson, Mayor Riner, Mr. and Mrs. George Brimmer, and Mr. and Mrs. Archie Allison.

Assisting in serving were Mesdames Schoenfeld, Overmyer, Clark, Gilbert, Bean and Liebel. Thursday Nov. 1, the regular meeting of the Fort Russell Women's Bridge Club was held at the Officers' Club. Mrs. G. L. Allen and Mrs. T. E. Winstead acted as hostesses. One hundred guests from the garrison and town were present.

THE THIRD CORPS AREA, BALTIMORE, MD.

THE most brilliant social function of last week in Baltimore was the reception and dance given by the Officers' Club Headquarters of the Third Corps Area, in honor of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Fred W. Sladen and their daughter Elizabeth. In the receiving line with General and Mrs. Sladen and Miss Sladen were Major General Charles P. Summerall, Chief of Staff, and Mrs. Summerall, Mayor and Mrs. William F. Broening, and Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah.

The state ball room of the Southern Hotel has never seemed more inviting, although it was not the Southern's premier military ball. And then the orchestra appeared to be at its best.

Washington was represented by Gen. and Mrs. Summerall, Col. and Mrs. Charles W. Weason came over from Aberdeen Proving ground, Md., Gen. and Mrs. Claude S. Fries from Fort Howard, Col. and Mrs. Oliver Eskridge from Fort Leonard Wood, and Col. and Mrs. Edgar S. Stayer from Camp Holabird.

One noticed among the other guests Canon and Mrs. Arrowsmith of the Maryland Cathedral, Col. and Mrs. H. O. Williams from Washington, Gen. and Mrs. Samuel L. Faison, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Charles H. Muir, Col. and Mrs. Isaac C. Jenks, Col. and Mrs. Fred L. Case, Col. and Mrs. Arthur S. Conklin, Col. and Mrs. Frank B. Watson, Col. and Mrs. Charles C. Burt, and fully two hundred others.

Among the greatest surprises of today, I think, is the swift and complete way in which our sons and daughters develop and before we know it are men and women. They have the 'sang-froid' of those gallants and great ladies of generations ago. It's the one surprise to which any amount of experience does not appear to accustom us

Engagements

THE Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Theodore Douglas Robinson announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth M. D. Robinson, to Mr. J. Blaise de Sibour, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jules Henri de Sibour of Washington, D. C.

Miss Robinson who is a great niece of Theodore Roosevelt, is a graduate of the Brearley School, New York City, and Miss Walker's School, Simsbury, Connecticut. She was a debutante of last winter and is a member of the Junior League.

Miss Robinson is an engaging young girl, much inclined toward athletics. She has been a prominent figure in Washington horse shows, riding and showing her own mount, and was one of the first enthusiasts among the younger set in the Capital for aviation.

Mr. de Sibour attended St. George's School, Newport, R. I.

Secretary and Mrs. Robinson and their family are occupying 1812 R Street, Washington, D. C., for the winter months.

and at just such places as the reception and dance of Friday gives proof of it to Army people. There is the astonishing fact of finding that the children of yesterday, are grown, home from West Point and fashionable boarding schools. Some ready for, or safely landed in business, others actually contemplating marriage. Are they up to date? Mercy, you should just have been there to "watch their steps" those dances so intricate one feels at times they will surely be tripped, but not at all, bless 'em, they are ours, long may they live, and "do their steps."

Col. and Mrs. Julius T. Conrad with their fascinating daughter, Jeanne, have recently arrived in Baltimore and are living at The Carolina on University Parkway. Col. Conrad has reported to the Third Corps Area for duty.

The Third Corps Area Bridge Luncheon club had its regular meeting at Wyman Park Hotel on Tuesday.

Maj. and Mrs. Alvin C. Gillem, son and daughter-in-law of Gen. Gillem, were hosts at a dinner for twenty guests at 809 Cathedral street, preceding the reception and hop on Friday of last week. Those enjoying the occasion were, Col. and Mrs. Frank B. Watson, Col. and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, Col. and Mrs. Arthur S. Conklin, Col. and Mrs. Charles C. Burt, Maj. and Mrs. Holloran, Maj. and Mrs. John Kennard, Maj. and Mrs. William F. Sharp, Maj. and Mrs. Allen Rutherford, and Capt. and Mrs. Hanby.

Col. and Mrs. Marlin Frather entertained recently with a bridge party in their apartment at St. Paul Court. Their guests were Col. and Mrs. Jenks, Doctor and Mrs. George Preston, Maj. and Mrs. Rutherford, Mrs. William Kenyon Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. Daniels, Miss Daniels, Miss Mary W. Hines and Mr. Wilton.

FORT BENNING, GA.

ON Sunday, Nov. 4th the Officers' Club held the first drag hunt of the season. The day was clear and bracing. The field of approximately 60 riders returned to the Polo Club with keen and whetted appetites. An excellent breakfast of grapefruit, steaks, potatoes, toast, rolls and coffee was served. After the breakfast the hunt gathered around the piano and sang old (Please turn to Next Page)

English hunting songs till the very walls of the Club still seemed to be resounding with "Drink Puppy Drink" as the riders departed for their homes.

The Woman's Club met for its first regular program on Monday, Nov. 5th, at the Polo Club. There were about 85 women present. Brig. Gen. Edgar T. Collins delivered the opening address. The General stressed the fact that the women of today not only ran their homes well and scientifically, but that they were also taking their proper place in the world. Following the General's address, Mrs. Richard D. Daugherty, accompanied by Mrs. A. D. Warnock, sang two delightful songs. The first from "Faust" in Italian, the second a lovely piece on friendship. Mrs. E. E. Lewis gave a charming and interesting review of the Mediterranean cruise which she, with Major Lewis and Col. and Mrs. Channing Delaplane took this summer. Concluding the program, Capt. Cecil Rutledge accompanied by Mrs. Rutledge sang three songs: Autumn Winds, by Gena Branscombe; God Lit the Stars, by Nitting; and That Dear Little Woman of Mine, by Bartlett. After this Mrs. Charles L. Willard and Mrs. Harry A. Wells were hostesses at a delightful tea.

On Friday, Nov. 9th the Officers and ladies of the 29th Infantry entertained with a dance at the Officers' Club Hop room. Preceding the dance the Officers and ladies of the 2d Battalion held a get-together dinner at Biggerville Mess hall. Those in the receiving line were Lt. Col. and Mrs. Brandt, the Battalion Commander of the 2d Battalion, Maj. and Mrs. L. W. Young, and Gen. and Mrs. Edgar T. Collins.

NORFOLK, VA.

November 16, 1928.

THE COMMANDANT and officers of the Navy Yard and the commanding officer and officers of the Naval Hospital, entertained at a dance on the evening of Nov. 6, in Building 16 in the Yard. The ballroom was decorated with flags and palms and the guests were received by Mrs. W. T. Cluverius, Mrs. W. J. Zalesky and Mrs. E. P. Finney.

The officers of the Naval Operating Base have announced two dances to be given in honor of Rear Adm. and Mrs. Guy H. Burrage on Nov. 21 and Dec. 31.

A delightful and successful subscription card party was given Nov. 5 at the residence of Rear Adm. and Mrs. Guy H. Burrage at the Naval Base by a group of young navy women for the purpose of providing funds for Christmas baskets for needy navy families. Miss Charlotte Burrage was general chairman of arrangements. She was assisted by Mrs. Albert C. Reed, Mrs. S. H. Arthur, Mrs. John Murphy, Mrs. Livingston Lewis and Mrs. H. E. Parsons. There were 48 tables. Following the game, Mrs. Burrage entertained at tea. She was assisted at the tea table by Mrs. H. L. Wyman, Mrs. A. C. Reed, Mrs. S. H. Arthur and Mrs. H. E. Parsons.

The first informal at home of the season given by Rear Adm. and Mrs. W. T. Cluverius at their quarters in the Navy Yard was given Tuesday, Nov. 13. Hours for calling were from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Comdr. and Mrs. Lucien J. Ker entertained on Saturday night, Nov. 10 at the Country Club at a dinner party honoring their guest, Mrs. Lyman Wilcox of Aberdeen, Md. The guests numbered eight.

Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. S. L. Wilson entertained Nov. 9 at their quarters at the Base, at a dinner party followed by bridge. The guests included Lt. and Mrs. W. S. Macaulay, Lt. and Mrs. Tillman, Lt. Comdr. Joseph Hoffman and Lt. T. O. McCarthy.

Mrs. Minajah Boland entertained on Nov. 9 at a bridge luncheon given at the Nansmond Hotel, Virginia Beach. Bridge was played at four tables.

Miss Charlotte Burrage entertained Monday afternoon, Nov. 12 at her home at the Naval Base at a tea in honor of Miss Martha Lewis Robinson whose marriage will take place Nov. 17.

The personnel of the Marine Barracks, Naval Operating Base gave their annual dance Saturday night. The guests numbered 200.

TAMPA, FLA.

November 13, 1928.

THE Army and Navy Club of Tampa, kept open house from noon throughout Saturday afternoon, Nov. 10, for all officers and former officers of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard and Public Health Service. A direct wire was leased from the Polo Grounds and enabled all present to follow the Army-Notre Dame football game play by play. The Navy-Michigan game was followed by quarters. All present enjoyed the afternoon. Major J. C. Williams, class of 1908, charted all plays on a prepared blackboard and there was much interest in the graphs devised to illustrate the plays.

Col. Will L. Pyles, U. S. A., will address members of the Army and Navy club at its dinner, Wednesday evening, Nov. 14, at the Tampa Terrace hotel. The address of welcome will be delivered by Mayor D. B. McKay. Maj. Gen. M. W. Ireland, the Surgeon General, U. S. A., selected the speaker and wired Maj. Philip Murphy, president of the club.

A reception preceding the dinner will be held from 6 to 7:30 in the club rooms at the Tampa Terrace. All officers in Tampa and vicinity have been invited, and members of the Hillsborough county medical society. Major Murphy has named the following reception committee: Dr. A. R. Beyer, chairman; Col. H. C. Culbreath, Col. H. W. Hesterly, Maj. J. C. Williams and Capt. Jerome A. Waterman. Maj. R. C. Hubbard, president of the county medical society, has named a committee, headed by Col. L. J. Efrid, with Maj. George E. V. Hardy and Dr. A. R. Beyer as members. Capt. M. J. Mackler, assistant city health officer, will assist the committees.

FORT MCKINLEY, P. I.

October 8, 1928.

MANY pre-nuptial parties have been given in honor of Miss Carolyn Tousey, whose engagement to Lt. Eugene H. Vernon has recently been announced. Mrs. Jesse R. Lippincott honored Miss Tousey with a bridge luncheon. On Sept. 7 Miss Ethel Clark gave a lovely tea and linen shower at her home in Miss Tousey's honor. On Sept. 11, Mrs. Charles P. Colson also honored Miss Tousey with a bridge luncheon.

Capt. and Mrs. Lowell W. Rooks were hosts at a delightful dinner at their quarters on Sept. 1, afterward taking their guests to the Manila Hotel for dancing.

Col. James B. Kemper and Col. Resolve Palmer were joint hosts at a tea dance on Sept. 2, at the McKinley Officers' Club in honor of the visiting Shriners from San Francisco, who were spending a week in Manila.

Lt. and Mrs. John J. Gahan entertained a large group of friends at the dinner dance at the McKinley Club on Sept. 14. Maj. and Mrs. Daniel Leininger also entertained several friends at the dinner dance at the club Sept. 14.

The performance of the drama, "Kick In," which was presented at the Post Theatre on the evenings of Sept. 20 and 21, was attended by a large and appreciative audience. The members of the cast included Lt. R. G. Howie, Maj. Starr Moulton, Mrs. Charles Karlstad, Mrs. Lee Hooper, Capt. Owen Summers, Mrs. Robert Howie, Mrs. John Evans, Mrs. Geo. P. Lynch, Lt. Chas. F. Colson, Lt. Edwin Johnson, Lt. J. M. Evans, with Lt. Donald Hill as director and banager. After the performance the cast, with their wives and husbands, was entertained at the McKinley Club at a very enjoyable supper party.

The Barn Dance at the McKinley Club on Sept. 28, sponsored by the 12th Med. Regt., was one of the most attractive and jolliest parties given at the club this season. The hall was decorated with hay-stacks and bales of hay were used for seats around the hall, while harness and barn equipment hung on the walls. The dance was opened with a grand march for all guests in costume. Mrs. Edward M. Wones and Capt. Dan Ellis received first prizes for the most appropriate costumes, Mrs. Geo. P. Lynch and Chap. Harry Fraser for the funniest costumes and Miss Vance and Capt. Karlstad received prizes for the most ridiculous costumes.

Many delightful dinner parties were given on the Post preceding the Barn Dance. One of the largest was that given by Capt. and Mrs. Richard T. Arnest who entertained the officers and ladies of the 12th Med. Regt. and a few friends from Manila. Lt. and Mrs. Samuel Fisher and Lt. and Mrs. Edwin Johnson also entertained a large group of friends at dinner preceding the Barn Dance.

Capt. and Mrs. Karlstad entertained informally at their quarters on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 29, in honor of Lt. Jasper Brady, who was a guest on the post.

Capt. C. L. Lloyd and Lt. Joseph Hussing were joint hosts to a party of friends for dinner at the Manila Hotel on Sept. 29, when their guests included Maj. and Mrs. Rufus Bratton, Maj. Richard Paddock, Lt. and Mrs. Stephen B. Elkins, Lt. and Mrs.

Reeve Keller, Mrs. Sydney Connor and Mr. and Mrs. Wolff.

A. Clark, and Col. and Mrs. Herman Glade, afterwards taking their guests to the bridge party at the McKinley Club.

Capt. and Mrs. Rees Lloyd entertained last week with a series of dinner parties. On Tuesday evening, Oct. 2, their guests were Col. and Mrs. J. F. Hall, Maj. and Mrs. S. A. Moulton and Maj. and Mrs. Bertram Duckwall. On Thursday, Oct. 4, Capt. and Mrs. Leininger, Maj. Bertram Olmstead, Capt. and Mrs. Wm. Shambora and Capt. and Mrs. Wm. McCarr. On Saturday evening, Oct. 6, Capt. and Mrs. Lloyd had as their guests Capt. and Mrs. G. I. Eberle, Capt. and Mrs. G. F. Macdonald, and Capt. and Mrs. Arthur Welch.

On Wednesday evening, Oct. 3, the largest post bridge party of the season was held at the Officers' Club. There were 19 tables in play. Mrs. G. P. Lynch and Lt. Donald Hill were hosts and hostess in this occasion. The highest scores for the evening went to Mrs. Garfinkel and Mrs. Lippincott, and Capt. Richard Arnest and Maj. Gen. Hagood. Consolation prizes were awarded Mrs. Lucy Ord Mason and Mrs. August Schanze.

NOTES FROM HAWAII.

October 30, 1928.

MAJ. AND MRS. Raymond Cramer were hosts with a dinner at Palm Lodge honoring Col. and Mrs. Frank Leflamme on Saturday evening, Oct. 27th. The guests were seated at a long table where an interesting color scheme was carried out in the centerpiece of gladioli, snapdragons and roses in varying shades of yellow. Asked to bid aloha to Col. and Mrs. Leflamme were Dr. and Mrs. Hugh De Valin, Col. and Mrs. Robert Blanchard, Col. and Mrs. Percy Poe Bishop, Majors and Mmes. Earl North, James Peale, James Hutson and Albert Brown. Dinner was followed by dancing.

Navy Policy Announced

build only such nonrigid airships as may be necessary for training purposes.

Organization Policy.

To organize the Navy as far as possible so that expansion only will be necessary in the event of war. To decentralize administration as far as indoctrination permits. To organize fighting ships permanently by classes. To assign units as required from the permanent organization to task groups for special operations, and training.

Operating Policy.

The principal elements of Naval efficiency are: Discipline and contentment of the personnel, and gunnery, engineering and aviation excellence in their tactical and strategic application. To maintain a general scheme of progressive education and training for the Navy. To assemble the active, fully manned and in active training, all fighting ships possible. To keep airplane carriers fully manned and operating with the Fleet. To put vessels assigned to reserve in condition for active service. To make foreign cruises as international conditions warrant thereby cultivating goodwill and educating the personnel. To operate a naval train sufficient for the upkeep of fighting ships and expeditionary forces. To make every effort, both ashore and afloat, at home and abroad, to assist the development of American interests and especially the American Merchant Marine. To make every effort for economy in expenditures compatible with battle efficiency. To assign suitable partially manned vessels for the training of Naval Reserves. To have in mind in assigning Naval forces, that yard and base facilities must be maintained on both coasts and in both oceans. To maintain the personnel at the highest standard and in sufficient numbers to carry out the building, replacement and operating policy. To develop and coordinate systematic courses of instruction and training for officers, petty officers and enlisted men. To be liberal in the assignment of officers to duty in foreign countries to broaden and perfect their professional education. To educate, train, rate and retain the services of a reasonable excess of petty officers over those necessary for the operation of the Navy. To avoid frequent shifting of personnel in organizations afloat and ashore. To retain all Naval Aviation personnel as an integral part of the Navy. To consider Marines assigned to ships as an integral part of the ship's company. To maintain the Marine Corps personnel at a strength sufficient for current requirements. To create, organize and train a Naval Reserve sufficient to provide the personnel necessary for mobilization and to guard its interest. To cultivate a close association between officers of the Navy and the Naval Reserve and to be liberal in the assignment of officers to duty with the Naval Reserve and to educational institutions. To emphasize in the training of the Reserves the duties most likely to be assigned them afloat upon mobilization. To safeguard the spirit of fair competition and sportsmanship in maneuvers, exercises and training, and to foster initiative and teamwork.

A system of outlying naval and commercial bases suitably distributed, developed and defended, is one of the most important elements of national strength. To retain for future use all stations now owned by the Navy that would be of use in the event of war. To maintain in operation the number of shore stations required to support the Navy in time of peace. To distribute the demand on shore stations to avoid peak loads and to further the development of Oahu, the Canal Zone and the Pacific Coast Station. To build a new naval base on the Pacific Coast in the San Francisco Bay area. To maintain and operate a system of naval districts organized for rapid expansion in war with their organizations separate and distinct from the administrative organizations of subordinate activities. To encourage development of commercial facilities that would be useful to the Navy in time of war.

Communications Policy.

To maintain and operate a naval communication system based on the requirements of the Fleet in war. To reduce by thorough indoctrination the number and length of communications. To provide and operate radio compass stations as required. To develop such radio communications as may aid maritime and aviation interests. To cooperate with the radio and cable organizations of the United States and other countries and to safeguard the communication interests of the United States, both public and private. To develop and maintain within the Fleet the best forms of communications for battle efficiency, stressing aviation and submarines. To use naval radio communications to assist in the furtherance of American interests abroad.

Inspection Policy.

To provide for the inspection of all offices, fleets, ships, stations and activities of the Navy in the following forms, viz: Visit and observation, reports, financial audit, inventory. To make service efficiency and coordination of effort by constructive criticism and judicious approval the mission of inspection. To maintain under Executive authority the inspection system distinct from the Executive function. To use the conference as an adjunct to inspections, particularly for indoctrination.

Information Policy.

To emphasize the importance of thorough indoctrination to give proper effect to information in the exercise of command. To recognize that sound decisions and action proceed only from accurate information rapidly communicated. To recognize the importance of the psychological effect of information on morale. To acquire accurate information pertaining to the political, military, naval, economic and industrial policies of our own and of foreign countries. To select, analyze, arrange, classify, summarize, and make available all information acquired for the purpose of reference and dissemination. To disseminate appropriate information systematically throughout the naval service. To preserve for ready reference and for historical purposes information collected and arranged systematically. To issue analytical studies of important historical incidents with a view to indoctrination. To cooperate closely with other Departments of the Government in the collection, preservation and dissemination of information. To link up information so closely with communication and operations that in time of war intelligent, continuous, coordinated and efficient effort will result. To recognize the great educational value of receiving and imparting information bearing on naval matters through the various appropriate public and private institutions of our country. To provide for protection against foreign espionage and propaganda. To acquire and disseminate appropriate information of the enemy in time of war.

Publicity Policy.

To furnish the public with full information of the Navy not incompatible with military secrecy, including its activities at home and abroad, its educational features and its contributions to science and industry.

precision and mastery of her instrument has pleased many critical audiences, played "From the Carnival," by Grieg, and other compositions to the great delight of the gathering. The program was concluded with the rendition of two sprightly Spanish dances written for four hands and played by Manette Bottoms and Sarah De Merritt.

An unusual and very attractive hour of music was presented at the Fort Leavenworth, Kans., Music Club on Nov. 7 by Mrs. D. M. Young and Mrs. Parley D. Parkinson.

While jumping her horse over the hurdles at Fort McPherson, Ga., Nov. 10, Mrs. Edwards, wife of Capt. R. T. Edwards, sustained severe contusions of the left side of the face and the left shoulder. The horse tipped the bar and the side supports fell inward, causing him to fall on his head, throwing his rider clear. Mrs. Edwards is recovering rapidly.

The dedication of the three war memorial murals on the south walls of the State capitol at Oklahoma City, Okla., painted by Capt. Gilbert White and donated to "the people of Oklahoma" by Frank Phillips, Bartlesville oil man, was the feature Armistice Day celebration in Oklahoma City Sunday, Nov. 12. Mr. Frank Phillips in his presentation speech, paid special tribute to Gen. Roy Hoffman, Mrs. P. J. Hurley and W. S. Key for their efforts in obtaining the murals, and to Capt. White, the artist. Following Phillips' presentation, Gen. Hoffman paid tribute to the dead and living soldiers of Oklahoma and to Phillips.

Encouraged by the success that attended its great football classic of 1926, when West Point and Annapolis played a tie game that was witnessed by a record breaking gathering of spectators, the city of Chicago is planning another Army and Navy football game to be held at Soldiers' Field in that city on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 29, between teams representing Fort Sheridan and the Great Lakes Naval Training Station. Present indications are that this game will be one of the leading social and athletic events of the year in Chicago.

Col. W. A. Dempsey, Q. M. Res., entertained at dinner at the Army and Navy Club, New York City, on Nov. 14, 1928. The invited guests were Col. F. Q. Brown, president of the Club, and the following: Col. W. A. Starrett, Gustave Porges, L. M. Pearsall, K. G. Martin, P. L. Gerhardt, W. S. Conrow, Maj. F. H. Cone, Capt. L. H. Guterman and Mr. F. P. Chapman.

The first state reception of the season was held at the White House on Thursday, Nov. 15, when President and Mrs. Coolidge entertained in honor of the diplomatic corps. The guests invited to meet the guests of honor included ranking members of the Senate and the House, representative Washington society and ranking Army and Navy officers and their wives.

The reception brought out one of the most brilliant style displays ever witnessed in Washington. Mrs. Curtis D. Wilbur, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, wore a black satin and chiffon dress trimmed with silver beads and a short train falling from a bow at the side.

Mrs. Crosby, wife of Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, wore a black and gold lame dress made on straight lines. Miss Crosby wore a period dress of black velvet.

Mrs. Charles F. Hughes, wife of the Chief of Naval Operations, was gowned in white and gold brocade made on straight lines.

Mrs. John A. Lejeune, wife of the commandant of the Marine Corps, wore orchid velvet studded with rhinestones at the neck and the girdle. Miss Eugenia Lejeune had on a princess dress of pink satin with petals around the skirt. Miss Laura Lejeune was in white georgette with crystal trimming. Miss Alice Davis, daughter of the Secretary of War and Mrs. Dwight F. Davis, had on a pale green moire dress on simple lines longer in back. Mrs. Edward R. Stitt, wife of the Surgeon General of the Navy, was in a black velvet gown draped in front, with salmon roses on one shoulder. Mrs. Yarnell, wife of Rear Adm. Harry E. Yarnell, was in black velvet with a circular skirt rhinestone embroidered. Miss Ruth Yarnell wore a bouffant frock of cafe-au-lait moire, and red slippers.

Mrs. Hero, wife of Maj. Gen. Andrew Hero, Jr., was gowned in black velvet trimmed with rhinestones. Mrs. William D. Connor, wife of the Commandant of

FINANCE

Financial Digest

By a Market Expert.

THE Federal Reserve Board gave out the latest retail trade as follows:

Sales of department stores showed an increase of 3 per cent in October, 1928, as compared with the corresponding month last year, according to reports made to the Federal Reserve System by 496 stores. When allowance is made for the fact that October contained one more business day this year than in 1927, however, average daily sales were in about the same volume this October as a year ago. In the preceding month average daily sales had been 10 per cent larger than a year earlier.

Slightly more than half of the reporting department stores showed increases in total sales in October compared with a year ago. The largest increases were shown in the Chicago, New York and San Francisco Federal Reserve districts, while substantial decreases were reported for the Minneapolis, St. Louis and Atlanta districts.

Sales of mail order houses were 25 per cent larger, and those of five-and-ten-cent chain stores 6.7 per cent larger than in October a year ago. The changes in the volume of business of both mail order houses and chain stores reflect in part an increase from month to month in the number of retail outlets operated.

Letters to Editor

SEEING "RED."

Editor, Army and Navy Journal:

I AM ENTIRELY out of sympathy with your attempt to turn the Army into a Soviet. Your effort to solve the promotion problem by popular referendum is pernicious meddling. The War Department has regularly organized agencies to solve questions affecting the welfare of the Army, and these agencies should solve them.

Judging from careful perusal of your columns over a period of years, I am of the opinion that you are more interested in delaying action on a revision of the promotion list, which action now seems imminent, than you are in finding out, for example, whether officers favor removal of restrictions on retired officers holding office or employment. I have yet to read any intimation in your paper that you favor an impartial consideration of the revision problem by Congress itself, and a solution of that problem on its merits. If you are, indeed eager to assist in eliminating dispute in the Army I should like to suggest that you use what influence you have to bringing this question to vote by Congress. I for one, am willing to accept the decision of Congress if this problem is considered on its merits, but I have no desire to lend my assistance to any attempts to prevent such decisions being made, such as your broadcast of the Army seems to be.

I return your valuable ballot for such further use as you may care to make of it.

H. C. HOLDRIE,

Captain of Cavalry.

To the Members of the Military Services:

Do you believe that the business of this country will continue to grow?

Would you like to share in the profits of this growth by participating in the earnings of one hundred leading corporations, representing a cross section of the business of the country, and a capitalization of $27,000,000,000?

Such a participation is made possible through ownership of the Standard Collateral Truited Common Stock Shares offered by the Standard Collateral Shares Corporation.

The investor with as little as $70 can buy these Trust Shares at approximately $14 each and participate in the earnings of the 100 corporations to the same extent proportionately that the investor with millions can. He obtains a sound, marketable security, which is protected by wide diversification, one of the most effective investment safeguards, has an immediate yield commensurate with safety, and an assurance of increasing yield and principal over a period of years.

Command Exercises Discussed

(Following is an article prepared for the Army and Navy Journal by Brig. Gen. Roy Hoffman, Res., giving the viewpoint of the 95th Division, O. R., on the recent exercises. In the issue of Nov. 3 we presented a detailed resume of the Exercises prepared at the direction of Brig. Gen. Bowley. This is a sequel to the original article.)

By BRIG. GEN. ROY HOFFMAN,
Commanding 95th Division, O. R.
Oklahoma City (Special).—According to the expressed opinions of the participants of the 95th Division, Organized Reserves of Oklahoma, the Command Post Exercise held near San Antonio, Texas, recently was a decided success from a tactical, technical and instructive viewpoint, of Regular and Reserve alike. The Division was commanded by Brig. Gen. Roy Hoffman, O. Res., President of the Reserve Officers' Association of the United States, who had as his Chief of Staff, Col. E. E. Haskell, Inf. (D. O. L.), the new Chief of Staff of the 95th Division, O. Res., with Headquarters at Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

The Staff was made up of the following officers: G-1, Maj. M. I. Jayne, 359th F. A., O. R.; G-2, Lt. Col. S. D. Maize, Cavalry (D. O. L.); Assistant Maj. J. N. McClure, Inf. Res.; G-3, Maj. Robt. T. Snow, Inf. (D. O. L.); Assistant Maj. K. J. Zinck, 320th Engrs., Org. Res.; G-4, Maj. T. B. Matthews, Engr. Res.

Artillery Brigade Commander: Lt. Col. H. B. Fell, 359th F. A., O. R.; Division Surgeon, Maj. J. L. Day, 320th Med. Regt., O. R.; Division Signal Officer, 1st Lt. C. P. Davis, Sig. Res.; Assistant 1st Lt. S. J. Keane, S. C., U. S. A.; Commandant Division Headquarters, Capt. C. Kelly, 23rd Inf.

The Staffs assembled at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, a week in advance of the exercise for the purpose of studying and holding conferences of the General Staff and Technical, Administrative and Supply Staff, on their respective duties and relations with each other. No other phase of instruction was as beneficial as this one activity, both by bringing the Staffs and individuals in closer contact with each other, and in clearing the duties of the others and their closely related activities.

On the 22d of Oct. after an assembly of all officers participating (something over 400), which was presided over by Brig. Albert J. Bowley, commanding the 8th Corps Area, and the First Army in the Exercise, at which the General and Special Situations were explained by Col. Waite C. Johnson, General Staff, G-3, Eighth Corps Area, the officers were conveyed by motor to their various Command Posts.

The Command Posts were located on the actual terrain north and northwest of San Antonio on the Leon Springs Reservation and east and west thereof, with normal distances apart. The Command Post of the First Army was located at Fort Sam Houston. Communication was by means of all authorized services. The purpose and a detailed account of the Exercise has appeared in an issue of the Army and Navy Journal so no account is given here except in a general way.

The Corps and Division Command Posts actually participating were in line from right to left, facing north as follows: 96th Division, 36th Division, 2nd Division, all in the I Corps, 45th Division, 103rd Division, 95th Division, all in the II Corps. On the left of the 95th Division was the I Cavalry Corps, with the 56th Cavalry Brigade on its right.

The Exercise started at 3 p. m., October 23, with all Divisions on the line in contact with the Reds except the 95th Division which was still under march conditions—its front being covered by the 112th Cavalry of the 56th Cavalry Brigade.

To each Division and Corps was attached an Assistant Director. Maj. J. W. Dower, F. A. (D. O. L.), being with the 95th Division, who furnished messages and orders and directed the exercise as per prearranged program of the director. Except for establishing liaison with Corps and adjacent units, and the preparation and keeping of the necessary situation maps reports and journals, little was required of the units of the 95th Division on the night of the 23rd, it being assumed that the units had gone into bivouac, although some casualties had resulted from enemy long range artillery fire and airplane bombing while moving up. On the 23rd reconnaissances of the sector as far as the assigned front were made by the Commanding General, Roy Hoffman, members of his General Staff sections and Technical Staff officers for positions and locations of their respective activities. Visits were made by the Commanding General or his Chief of Staff, to Corps and adjacent Command Posts to keep in touch with the situation. In other words the Division was playing the game and making it as near realistic as conditions allowed. By one these visits of the Chief of Staff, timely information was gained, of an attack on the 24th, by the I Cavalry Corps and the movement of the 95th Division into the front line, relieving the Cavalry in its front and taking over part of the 56th Cavalry Brigade sector. This gave the Division Commander time to issue a warning order to his command of a probable movement into the front line and preparation for relief orders and reconnaissance. Shortly after, about 3 p. m., the Corps Order was received, changing the Corp's left boundary and ordering the 95th Division to take over part of the front held by the 56th Cavalry Brigade. The relief to start at once and to be completed by 2 a. m., night of Oct. 24-25.

A general attack was ordered by the

To Urge Cruisers

A strong recommendation that funds be appropriated immediately for cruiser building is expected to be included in the annual message to Congress by President Coolidge who is now at work on the document.

The President has decided that it is most urgent that money be provided for this purpose without undue delay. He will point out that in view of the time required to complete modern cruisers of the type needed, the Navy should be authorized to let contracts immediately.

ASKS CHRISTMAS AID.

Aid for the wives and children of prisoners is sought by the Volunteer Prison League. This League solicits contributions in order to distribute clothing and shoes and other necessities to these dependents of prisoners at Christmas time. Contributions should be sent to Mrs. Ballington Booth, The Volunteers of America, 34 West 28th St., New York.

Army on the morning of the 25th. The I Cavalry Corps having successfully attacked and driven back the opposing Red Cavalry on the 24th.

The 95th Division as the maneuvering force was directed to attack in a northeast direction, in other words was the enveloping force. The Division had been reinforced with a regiment of medium Corps artillery and two regiments of light artillery, but until about 11 a. m. the Reds held stubbornly to their positions and then only retired in good order to a second delaying position on the 95th Division front. While the Blues were gradually gaining ground, at 1 p. m. the 25th, orders were received that the Exercise would cease.

All units moved into Fort Sam Houston in the afternoon and at night a large reception was held for all officers participating and their ladies. The receiving line being composed of General Bowley and about seventeen other general officers who either participated or were observers.

At 10 a. m., the 26th, all officers attended a critique by General Bowley in which the whole exercise was discussed and commented upon, but either mercifully or through no necessity the faults and mistakes of units or individuals were not brought into the comments but were dwelt upon generally, the shoe pinching those who wore it. Brig. Gen. Frank Parker, General Staff, G-3, War Department, was present and gave a talk on the Exercise and the War Department's views and intentions to hold them in other Corps Areas in succeeding years. The afternoon and night of the 26th of October found all homeward bound.

FOR EVERY RISK BENEATH THE SUN THERE'S PROTECTION OR THERE'S NONE! IF THERE IS, SEEK AND FIND IT! IF THERE'S NOT, NEVER MIND IT!

The greatest risk in driving an automobile is that of injuring a pedestrian. The courts generally hold the driver of the motor to be at fault, regardless of the circumstances of the accident. He may be a jay-walker, drunk or courting injury to raise cash, and the driver absolutely blameless but—

Juries appear to be of the opinion that car owners are big game with rich pelts and no closed season. Generally skin them.

The worst of it is that after judgment the car owner may be able to pay in a lump, if he has property or cash, or by installments from his monthly stipend, if in the usual financial condition.

There have been over 15,000 FATAL, personal injuries by autos per year in the United States for the past three years—an average of 42 per day. There have been twice as many purely injury cases in the same period. When will you hit yours?
